Immigration Authorities Order Deportation of Mrs. Pankhurst.

MILITANT ONE TO TAKE APPEAL

Suffragette Leader Will Carry Her Case Up to Commissioner.

New York, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the English militant suffragette leader, who arrived here today for a lecture tour, was ordered deported by the immigration authorities within a little less than three hour after the vessel upon which she came had docked.

The special board of inquiry which decided her case voted not to admit her to the country under bond, but to send her to France forthwith.

Mrs. Pankhurst's lawyer, Herbert Reeves announced his intention of appealing the case immediately to Commissioner General Caminetti. Pending decision by Mr. Caminetti, Mr. Reeves said he would seek to have his client admitted to this country under bond so that she may be able to fulfill her engagement to speak at Madison Square market.

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, the suffrage leader, who was to have been Mrs. Pankhurst's host, was prepared to give bond up to $100,000 for Mrs. Pankhurst's good behavior while in America. Under the special board's ruling she will not be permitted to do so and Mrs. Pankhurst must remain at Ellis island until deported, unless the board's findings are reversed by the authorities in Washington.

PRESIDENT IS GIVEN, MONSTER SWEET POTATO.

Washington, Oct. 18.—A big sweet potato weighing six and three quarter pounds, was removed from the desk of President Wilson today and carried to the white house kitchen. The white house chef tonight will put it into the family pot and it will grace the table of the chief executive of the United States at dinner.

The potato, on view to the president's callers all of yesterday, was the gift of Charles E. Robinson, of Lincolnton, N. C. The donor sent it, he said, "as a sample of democratic prosperity."

NO MORE FACTOR IN WORLD TRADE

American Cattle and Beef Exports Drop to Startling Extent.

WHAT BUREAU FINDS

Washington, Oct. 18.—Exit the American cattle and beef as a factor in world commerce. This virtually is the declaration of the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, which announced today that such exports had dropped in less than a decade to a startling extent.

"In 1904 the bureau's statisticians found that this country sent cattle and beef abroad to the value of more than forty-four millions of dollars during the eight months ending with August. In the corresponding eight months this year a scant million dollars in such products have gone to the larders of peoples of other lands. As an aggravating fact accompanying the falling off in exports, the United States has been forced to draw more and more largely on other countries for beef and beef animals, says the bureau. This demand for food from outside has been met mostly by Mexico, which, in spite of its internal troubles, has been able to send approximately 392,000 head of cattle into the United States.

Despite the growing scarcity of cattle the bureau declares the prices of beef animals have fallen steadily.

RECEIVER IS NAMED.

M. J. Broderick in Charge of Muncie Automobile Concern.

Muncie, Ind., Oct. 18.—Michael J. Broderick was appointed receiver for the Interstate Automobile company of Muncie. The petition asking for a receiver was filed by Thomas F. Hart, president, who alleged that the comany's total indebtedness was about $500,000. The assets besides the plant, some raw material and completed automobiles are given at 43,635. The operation of the plant will be continued under the receivership.

BIG GUNS ARE BOOMING.

Distinguished Company Views Battleship Practice.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 18.—The division of the Atlantic fleet steamed out to heavy battle practice today with Secretaries Daniels, Garrison, Redfield and a distinguished company from official circles in Washington. In a southwest wind and a light sea the big dreadnoughts steamed out through a haze and before noon the big guns were booming.

HUERTA SOON TO STEP OUT

Only Lack of Agreement on Man to Succeed Him Delays Move.

FRIENDS URGE HIM TO RETIRE

New Developments Serve to Make Mexican Situation More Complex.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Possibilities of Huerta's immediate retirement commanded foremost attention in the Mexican situation here today and administration officials were waiting advices to supplement those of late yesterday which suggested very strongly that Mexico's provisional president had been deterred only for lack of agreement on a man to succeed him.

Blanquet, minister of war, one of the group who acted with Huerta in the downfall of Madero, was mentioned as a successor but not approved here. Diplomatists also were of the opinion that Blanquet was ineligible because he was born in Spain and the Mexican constitution demands a native born. Whether Blanquet could relieve the situation with the United States also was a question discussed.

Reports of Huerta's impending retirement, rumors of death plots against Felix Diaz, a rival presidential candidate and the attitude of foreign governments, which already have recognized Huerta and some of which are regarded as sympathizing with the position of the United States all served to make the situation more complex.

President Wilson went off to the golf links as is his week-end custom and Secretary Bryan was out of the city.

Despite the lack of advices today, there was a feeling of confidence in American circles that Huerta was being pressed by his friends to retire.

SIXTY-FOUR STILL HELD.

Members of Mexican Chamber of Deputies Are Arraigned.

Mexico City, Oct. 18.—Seventy-four of the 110 members of the Mexican chamber of deputies arrested by order of Provisional President Huerta on Oct. 10 were today arraigned beefore the second judge of the federal district, who has had charge of the investigation into the case. The period in which, according to the law, charges held to found against the deputies or liberty given to them, expired today.

The charges entered against the deputies today were all for political offenses designated by the law as rebellion, sedition and "insults" to important public functionaries. Ten of the deputies, against whom there was said to be insufficient evidence, were released today. The others had been previously set at liberty. It was expected yesterday that Rodolfo Reyes, formerly provisional minister of justice, and Jorge Vera Estanol, formerly provisional minister of public instruction, would be released, but they were among those kept in custody.

CONVENTION IS ENDED.

Evansville Woman New Head of Indiana Library Association.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 18.—The annual meeting of the Indiana Library association closed yesterday with a round table and the election of officers as follows: President, Miss Ethel McCullough, Evansville; vice president, Miss Gertrude Thiebaud, Peru; treasurer, Miss Alice Stevens, Logansport; secretary, Miss Henrietta I. Scranton, Elwood. The 1914 meeting will be held in Indianapolis next October.

CUTS SOCIAL ENGAGEMENTS.

New Regulations for College Girls in Pan-Helenic Association.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Hereafter, college girls who are members of sororities constituting the Pan-Helenic association, will be forced to dispense with mid-week social engagements. Delegates from 87 chapters of 18 national sororities attending meetings of the association, yesterday unanimously voted for this regulation of the life of the sorority girl. The regulation will allow post graduates to have one such engagement.

LAST OF WARRIOR KINGS PASSES ON

Noted Zulu Chieftain Led Rebellions Against the British Power.

WAS SON OF CETYWAYO

Capetown, Oct. 18.—Dinizulu, the last of the warrior kings of the former Zulu nation of South Africa, died today. He was a son of Cetywayo, the king who led the Zulu nation against the British troops in the war of 1879. Cetywayo was defeated after he had inflicted a crushing blow on the British army at the battle of Isandalwana when practically the entire Twenty-fourth infantry regiment was massacred. It was during the war that the French Prince Imperial Louis Napoleon was killed while out reconnoitering with the British troops.

Dinizulu did not become a king when his father died, but was proclaimed later by the Boers and led two or three rebellions against the British powers. On one occasion when captured he was exiled to the Island of St. Helena. When permitted to return to his native land he took part in another rebellion, after which he was tried and sentenced to four years' imprisonment. He was given his liberty from prison when the union of South Africa was established in 1910.

THIS IS MOVING DAY IN ALBANY

Sulzer Scores His Foes as He Turns Over the Governorship.

WILL GET LOVING CUP

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 18.—Today was moving day in Albany. Governor Glynn was busy preparing to move his office equipment from the quarters on the third floor of the capitol, which he has occupied since the beginning of the impeachment proceedings, into the executive suite on the second floor.

At the "people's house" William Sulzer and Mrs. Sulzer were collecting their personal belongings and making ready to leave Albany. In the senate chamber workmen were dismantling the fixtures which for some time transformed the onyx-walled chamber into a velour and velvet-draped court room. Official business was particularly at a standstill. Governor Glynn arrived at the capitol shortly after 11 o'clock this morning and

NON-PARTISAN PETITIONS IN

Necessry Step is Taken to Get Names on Voting Machines.

SETS OUT EMBLEM AND CANDIDATES

Eleven Petitions Filed With the City Election Commissioners.

Eleven properly signed petitions filed this afternoon with the board of city election commissioners at the city hall complete the legal steps necessary to have the non-partisan ticket placed upon the ballots at the city election in Fort Wayne in November. Monday is the last day on which such petitions could be filed.

One petition bearing more than the necessary number of signatures is of general nature and sets forth the names of the candidates for mayor, city clerk, city judge and five councilmen-at-large. The other ten petitions are for ward councilmanic candidates from the ten wards of the city.

The petitions ask that the emblem of the non-partisan ticket be placed on the ballot, and in detail describes the emblem as the old fort with a background showing the rising sun and bearing the words, "Greater Fort Wayne." In conclusion, the different petitions state that each of the candidates named is legally qualified to become candidate and if elected, become officers for the places towhich they aspire. The petitions were filed by Judge Sol A. Wood.

Small Contributors Give.

A seemingly spontaneous desire to aid the non-partisan movement has sprung into existence and small contributions are coming to headquarters on East Berry street in great number. Only yesterday a telephone inquiry at headquarters asked if small contributions would be received.

"That's about the only kind we have been receiving," replied A. E. Thomas, who was then informed that the man at the other end of the line was an employe of a downtown business house.

WILD SCENE OF JOY FOLLOWED

Arrival of Eleven Women Saved from Volturno Brings Tears.

A TOUCHING REUNION

New York, Oct. 18.—The arrival today of eleven women saved from the burning Volturno by the freighter Rappahannock was the signal for the wildest scene of joy and thanksgiving witnessed here since the rescue fleet began to bring in their cargoes of survivors. The women were transferred at Halifax from the Rappahannock to the liner Florizel, which docked in Brooklyn.

Ten of them were young girls. The eleventh was Mrs. Polack and the scene at the dock as she met her three children whom she had given up for lost brough tears to the eyes of the immigrant officers. Mrs. Polack was the last woman to leave the Volturno. She was lowered into one of the Rappahannock's boats believing that her children already were there. When the boat put off from the blazing ship and she found that the little ones were left behind she became hysterical and the boat's crew had all they could do to keep her from jumping overboard.

She remained in a hysterical condition crying all the journey to New York. Here for the first time she learned that the children had been saved by one of the boats from the Kroonland. They met her at the dock with their father, an East side merchant.

The ten girls were taken care of by the various immigration societies.

MARKS VICTORY 100 YEARS AGO

Memorial of Battle of the Nations Dedicated at Leipsic.

VAST THRONG THERE

Leipsic, Saxony, Oct. 18.—Thousands of people from all parts of Germany, Russia and Sweden gathered here today for the dedication of the memorial of the "battle of the nations"—which ended just 100 years ago in a victory for the allies over the French and resulted in the emancipation of Germany. One of the features of the day's exercises is the arrival of the runners in a series of relays bearing banners and greetings from every quarter of the German empire and also from Washington and from Rio Janeiro. The banner from the United States passed through the hands of many thousand athletes before it reached the king of Saxony.

In all the relays a total of 43,000 runners were engaged. The monument was dedicated by the king of Saxony. The chief address was delivered by Wilhelm Clemens Thieme, chamberlain at the royal court of Saxony, to whose efforts the completion of the monument was due. Standing near him were a group of princes representing the rulers of the countries whose troops had formed part of the victorious allied army. They included the Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria, the Grand Duke Cyril of Russia and Prince William of Sweden.

The long program of festivities included services at the Austrian memorial to the commander of the allied army, Field Marshal Prince Karl Philipp von Schwarzenburg, a "Te Deum" at the Russian memorial church, luncheon at the council house, a state dinner at the royal palace and an oratorio "From Germany's Great Days" at the opera house.

RECLUSE HAD VAST WEALTH.

Aged Spinster Who Died in New York Was Worth a Million.

New York, Oct. 18.—A preliminary report of the estate of Miss Sarah Knight, a recluse spinster, who died recently in a small boarding house room here, indicates that she was possessed of more than a million dollars in stocks and real estate in this city. Her will divided the estate equally between her cousins, Joseph C. McLoughlin and George McLoughlin, of Sedalia, Mo., from which place she came to New York twenty years ago.

PURDUE HOPES RUNNING HIGH

Expects to Administer a Drubbing to Wisconsin Eleven.

PLANS TO DAZZLE GRIDIRON RIVALS

Result at Lafayette Will Put Loser Out of Conference Running.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 18.—Purdue meets Wisconsin on the foot ball field here this afternoon and with an even break of luck Coach Smith declares the local eleven will win. Purdue will use the same line-up that defeated Northwestern University here last Saturday. While only straight foot ball was used against Northwestern, Purdue expects to use open field plays and forward passes in today's game in a way to dazzle the Wisconsin players. Wisconsin also has been working hard for the contest and the squad arrived here confident of victory. The team that loses here today will be out of the conference running. This is the last big game on Purdue's home schedule and a large crowd is expected. The probable line-up:

Purdue.	Position.	Wisconsin.
Stinchfield	L E	Lange
Blocker	L T	Buck
Bishop	L G	Gelein
Glossop	C	Powell
Routh	R G	Keeler
Usner	R T	Butler

LEGAL WEDDING FOLLOWS OLD BROOMSTICK CEREMONY.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 18.—William H. Walton and Margaret Miller, married forty years ago with the informal southern ceremony of jumping over a broomstick, are to be re-married today with a legal ceremony. The husband is on his death bed and he expressed as his last wish that he be legally married.

Voters Are Urged to Read in Hosey's Organ the Best Reasons for Electing Hosey

By the Non-Partisan City Central Committee.

To the Voters of the City of Fort Wayne:

The non-partisan committee begs the citizens of Fort Wayne to read in the organ of the Hosey-spoils party the "reasons" that are given why Mr. Hosey should be elected mayor of Fort Wayne. This committee has no time, and the non-partisan newspapers haveno space to waste, replying to these "reasons." This committee would be glad to reprint all that is said in Mr. Hosey's behalf through the medium of his organ, but the committee cannot trespass too far upon this space.

But the non-partisan committee requests and urges you to take the trouble to read the matters concerning the present contest as they are presented by Mr. Hosey's personal organ. Read the black-type fulmination in Tuesday morning's issue of the pulbication. It will be well worth your while to study that remarkable story of the "unholy plot" of the corporations to wreck the municipal lighting plant. Thursday morning's issue repeats the substance of the nefarious conspiracy. Do not miss that nor subsequent variations of the troubled theme. Make it your business to have an intimate acquaintance with all that Mr. Hosey's press management and organ put forth as the BEST REASONS the Hosey-spoils party can offer why Mr. Hosey should be elected mayor and spoils government continued.

Stick close to your job of reading the Hosey-spoils outbursts from now until election. They are interesting, they are unique, they pay a fine tribute to your common sense. Surely you are, and will continue to be, flattered by the estimate put upon your common sense by the stuff with which they appeal to you. With all good faith and earnestness the non-partisan committee begs you voters of Fort Wayne on no account to fail to read all that is put up to you why Mr. Hosey and his spoilsmen should triumph.

An Angel at the Dedication

"I actually shed tears."

"I NEVER HAD such a glad time and such a sad time in all my life," said Louis Gerke, a young man employed at the Bass foundry. "You see, Oscar Suetterlin, who works at the Central grocery, and I joined the bunch that went up to the dedication of the Concordia Teachers' college just outside of Chicago. I wanted to do the thing up right, so I bought a new pair of shoes just before we started. Well, while we were on the train going up, those shoes commenced to feel too tight and so I loosened 'em up a bit and they felt better—my feet did, I mean. Well, we get to Chicago all right, and I laced up my shoes again and we all went out to the college—thirty miles from downtown. It was a fine day, and there were great crowds of people there. But my feet commenced to hurt something fearful, and the more we walked around the fearfuller they got. It was awful to see the sun shining so brightly and to see everybody having such a fine time and then for me to be trying to look like I was having a good time and have my feet hurting like the very old dickens.

"Well, just then, somebody introduced Oscar and me to two fine young ladies who were lonesome and willing to have good company to stroll around with and help to dedicate the college.

"Just as soon as we were introduced, I hoped for goodness' sake that Oscar would pair off with the tall one and leave the other one to stroll with me, for she was certainly the swellest looking girl I ever saw in all my life. She was simply an angel. But even so, those feet of mine began to hurt worse than ever. I tried hard to center my mind on this strolling companion of mine, but it was no use. Once I cried out in pain and actually shed tears. She wanted to know what was the matter and I told her that our dog had died week before last and I was still mourning for him. But it was no use. I got Oscar aside and told him we would have to break away and go downtown and get some shoes that wouldn't murder me. And so we did. And I never in my life hated to depart from anything like I did that very moment.

"Well, we had an awful time getting shoes that felt good to my feet, because they were swollen and irritated, and it was well along toward night when we got back to the college. We hunted and hunted till it was time to come back to take the train for home."

GONSHUR AGAIN BEATS UP WIFE

Brutal Pole Arrested After Flight, While Hiding in a Cellar.

NEWS OF THE POLICE

Joe Gonshur, a Polish man living on the southern limits of the city who has been repeatedly arrested for brutality to his wife, was again taken into custody this morning for a similar offense. After an absence of three or four days Gonshur appeared at his home last night, kicked in a window and gave his frail wife a most brutal mauling, beating and kicking her shockingly. This morning the police were called and Officers Kintz and Degitz went out to Gonshur's home in the police wagon. Gonshur had fled and the officers found him hiding in the cellar of an unfinished dwelling some distance south. Judge Mungovan continued the case until Monday and meanwhile it will be determined whether or not an attempt shall be made to send Gonshur to the penitentiary for neglecting his children. Gonshur was fined in a justice court last week for beating his wife and a few weeks prior to that was released from the city court on his promise to treat his wife better and provide for his children. This morning the officers found Mrs. Gonshur and her six little children without a mouthful of food and the woman was at work over a washtub. She has no shoes and just enough clothing to cover her. The children are kept clean and neat, but suffer for want of clothing. Gonshur earns good wages, but spends his money for drink and his abuse of his family is unspeakable. It is feared that he will murder her in one of his drunken outbreaks as he has often threatened to do. The family lives in a poor home near McKinney avenue.

Smith Held for Grand Larceny.

Lemuel A. Smith was bound over to the circuit court on a grand larceny charge after a prolonged hearing in the city court. Smith is accused of having stolen a diamond ring valued at $125 and a small sum of money from the home of his employer, Rankin Manger, a fish dealer at 531 Holman street, on the 21th of September. He left the city a few days later and was arrested in Newark, Ohio, his former home. The gold mounting of the ring was found in the alley back of Manger's place but the diamond has not been recovered. Smith has a bad record in Newark, having once been arrested for horse-stealing and he is reported to have been in jail there as one of the ring-leaders of the mob that broke into jail there and took out a man and lynched him during the "wet and dry" fight a few years ago.

Lenwell Finally Gets Work.

Clyde Lenwell, a "rart," whose specialty is throwing fits in saloons and restaurants, was sent over for thirty-five days after he pleaded guilty in the city court to a charge of drunkenness with a previous conviction. Lenwell pulled his spasm in the Germania saloon, on East Berry street, last night and Dr. E. H. Kruse was called in to attend him and the police sent for. As soon as the officers laid eyes on Lenwell they had his number and he was arrested for drunkenness. This is the third time he has worked his case of fits in Fort Wayne within the last three months. The first time he got away with it at the Transfer restaurant and was taken to Hope hospital, where he received attention and rewarded it by foul abuse of the nurses. A few weeks later he tried the act in a saloon, was arrested and sent to jail for a term. Leaving Fort Wayne, Lenwell played a return engagement in Columbia City, where he was found to have worthless checks in his possession. Soon after that he was arrested in Plymouth, where he was jailed for obtaining money on worthless paper, but friends settled for him. He will have steady work for upwards of a month under the new order that has put county prisoners on the highways to work.

Woman Threatens Officer With Knife.

Violet Glover, who claims to be a Mexican senorita but looks more like a mixture of Ethiopian and something else, was given $5 and costs and went to jail for drunkenness. She called at the police station last night to inquire about a man she supposed was under arrest, got ugly and was sent away by Captain Martin Rundell. She soon returned and going into the captain's private office threatened to stab him and made as if to draw a knife. Sergeants Crawley and Galentine seized her and she was locked up.

Other City Court Cases.

Ray Full and Elmer Perna, a pair of young fellows who have jobs, were doing fine team work to uphold the significance of Full's patronymic and went roaring drunk when they went into the Indiana buffet, corner of Calhoun and Wayne streets, last night. They asked the man and tendered the coin, but were refused anything to drink, whereupon they became abusive and were arrested. Judge Mungovan let them go.

Evans Linnell Foster is the story book name given by a rusty youngster who claims to hail from the classic precincts of Cambridge, Mass. He had been working in Garrett and yesterday drew his money and sloped, leaving unpaid a ten-dollar board bill that he owed an aged woman whom he admits was very kind to him. Detective Sergeant Walter Immel picked Foster up as he came from a second-hand store on Main street, where he had purchased a suit of clothes. Foster had money enough to settle his board bill and he was held under a week's continuance to arrange that matter and to communicate with his parents. Later today a man came here and got the money for Foster's board bill.

Frank Paquin was drunk and begging money and was arrested. His case was continued until Monday. Pete Harris and Joe Stevens, drunks, were let go.

CONFESSES TO FORGERY.

The man arrested as William Kimball and held for drunkenness, with suspicion hanging over him of having robbed a man, is proved to have forged the name of his employer, Ephraim Erter, the contractor, to a check for $68.75 and cashed the paper at a bank. Mr. Erter called at the station yesterday to inquire about this man and an investigation brought the forgery to light. Kimball confessed when confronted with the evidence of his crime.

NOTES OF THE POLICE.

L. S. Cook, wanted here fore forging two drafts on the Anthony hotel a short time ago, is under arrest in Detroit and an officer left this city today to bring him back.

John Ubozak and Zine Zobinsk, foreigners, who had been employed in the sugar factory at Decatur, were arrested here last night and were taken back to Decatur later by officers who came for them. They committed a robbery at the factory where they worked.

Miss Marie Wunderlin, who boards at 1004 Eliza street, reports that a man who represented himself as a police officer and displayed a star came to her place and took away a gold band ring and a small set ring, claiming that the jewelry had been stolen. The man came in an automobile in which were another man and a woman. Miss Wunderlin's landlady held the conversation with the impostor and furnishes a good description of him.

YOST NOT OPTIMISTIC.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—What was heralded as the strongest football team that ever represented Michigan Agricultural college lined up against the University of Michigan on Ferry field this afternoon. Coach Yost, of the Wolverines, after having made numerous shifts in his backfield during the last fortnight, hoped he had struck upon a strong combination but was not particularly optimistic as to the outcome of the game.

YALE TAKES NO CHANCES.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 18.—There was no disposition on Yale's part to take chances with Lehigh this afternoon. The blue eleven was practically the same as that used against Lafayette last week. The 'varsity game was preceded by the annual contest between the Yale freshmen and Phillips Exeter.

HARVARD—HOLYCROSS.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18.—Minor injuries sustained by some of the regulars necessitated the placing of substitutes in the Harvard lineup for today's game with Holycross. Brinkley, fullback, has not quite recovered from an injury to his hip. Hitchcock, tackle, and Bradlee, quarterback, have sprained ankles.

BOTH TEAMS CONFIDENT.

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 18.—Captain Rockne, of the Notre Dame football team, will not be able to get into the game here today with South Dakota and Coach Harper has picked Gushurst, a backfield candidate, to play the end. The South Dakota eleven arrived yesterday and in the afternoon held a secret signal practice. Both teams are confident of winning.

WINTER WEATHER HERE.

Low Temperature and Promise of Colder Makes City Shiver.

Fort Wayne is today experiencing a little premature winter weather, and with low temperatures since early Friday afternoon the city is shivering, so to speak, and those who are compelled to be out of doors have donned overcoats while in offices and homes furnace fires have again been rekindled. The lowest temperature recorded in the last twenty-four hours was 45 degrees, but even as the mercury started to rise in the government thermometer a drizzling rain arrived and with cold winds from the north added greatly to the generally unfavorable conditions. W. S. Palmer, official forecaster in the local station of the government weather bureau, predicts colder weather with frost for tonight, and fair and continued cold Sunday.

Local Postoffice Completes Report on Parcel Post Matter.

RECEIPTS ARE $125,864

During the first fifteen days of this month the Fort Wayne postoffice handled 29,237 articles of parcel post mail, according to a report just completed by Assistant Postmaster William J. Hess. Of this number 18,662 parcel post packages were mailed here for delivery in other zones, and 10,574 packages were received for local delivery. The weight of the parcel post mailed from the local office from October 1 to 15 was 20,198 pounds, or an average of 1 pound and 11½ ounces to each package.

These statistics were compiled in compliance with an order from the postoffice department at Washington, and each article mailed as parcel post until for fifteen days was numbered and weighed and a record was kept of the postage. The total amount of postage represented on the 18,662 packages was $125,864, or an average of 6¾ cents each. One hundred and sixty-seven packages were mailed in Fort Wayne for local delivery.

The largest number of packages mailed here were addressed to the fourth zone, which includes New York city. The number of parcel post packages mailed here to the different zones is as follows:

First zone, 2,728; second, 3,678; third, 2,560; fourth, 4,575; fifth, 2,574; sixth, 939; seventh, 240; eighth, 1,202.

Basis for Decision.

Mrs. Pankhurst's deportation was ordered under section two of the immigration law. This section provides for the exclusion of persons convicted abroad of a crime or crimes involving moral turpitude. The board held that Mrs. Pankhurst's conviction in England of conspiracy to commit arson brought her within this class.

The militant leader's case moved with unexcelled celerity. She was interrogated by immigration inspectors on board the liner Provence, upon which she had made the trip from Harve, was detained but a few minutes aboard the vessel when it docked, was rushed in a special tug to the detention station at Ellis island and taken immediately before the special board of inquiry there. Her examination by this board lasted little over an hour and she was not represented by counsel.

Mrs. Pankhurst told the immigration officials that her purpose in coming to America was not to advocate the militant method for obtaining suffrage, but to lecture upon the history and the progress of the cause in England.

Detained Aboard Liner.

Mrs. Pankhurst was detained aboard the liner Provence when it docked. A special tug was commissioned to take her to Ellis Island. She was placed aboard and taken to the immigration station there. A special board of inquiry, it was announced would convene speedily and render a verdict some time today, if possible. This board set itself to determine if Mrs. Pankhurst's conviction in England was for a crime involving moral turpitude. If so, she would come within the class excluded by the immigration act. If not, the act does not apply. To inspectors who questioned her aboard the Provence, Mrs. Pankhurst asserted that her conviction was for politicl offense and that it was generally understood that her sentence had expired when she left England for France, although she had not been so notified formally. For a quarter of an hour the militant leader was questioned by immigration inspectors in the white and gold music room of the liner.

A curious crowd of passengers eager to learn the disposition of her case, trooped in through the doors and pressed the two score newspaper reporters forward until they surrounded the little group. Rheta Child Door, Mrs. Pankhurst's traveling companion, sought to sit beside teh militant leader during the hearing, but this the inspectors would not permit, examining Mrs. Pankhurst alone.

THE DEATHS

CAREY.

Rev. Ephriam Carey, aged eighty years, a resident of Perry township, died Friday at St. Joseph's hospital after a prolonged illness from complications. Rev. Carey was a local preacher and was well known throughout the county.

Surviving besides the widow he leaves two sons, Thomas Carey, of Huntertown, and Jesse Carey, of Denver. He also leaves one daughter, Ala, who resides in Dallas, Tex. He leaves among other relatives, four grandchildren. Rev. Carey moved here two years ago from Dallas, Tex., and his wife remained at Denver.

Funeral services Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Methodist Episcopal church at Huntertown. Interment at the Huntertown cemetery.

BARRUS.

Miss Inez Barrus, aged 20 years, died at 12:40 o'clock this afternoon at the home of her mother, 528 Fairmont place, after a prolonged illness from stomach trouble. Surviving besides the mother she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Henry Kiefer and Mrs. Charles Stauffeffr, both of this city. The deceased was a member of the United Brethren church, and wall well known.

FUNERAL NOTICES.

Stellhorn—Funeral services for Mrs. William C. Stellhorn will be held privately at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon from the family residence, 702 Van Buren street, Rev. Jacob Miller officiating. Friends may view the remains Sunday afternoon at the residence.

Tyler—Funeral services for George Tyler will be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the residence, 312 North Harrison street, Rev. H. B. Master officiating, interment at the Hatfield cemetery, four and one-half miles north of the city.

TRACTION CO. IS SUED FOR $15,000

Albert D. Palmer Says He Has Suffered Permanent Injury in Mishap.

NEWS OF THE COURTS

In a suit filed in the circuit court this afternoon, Albert D. Palmer sues the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company for $15,000 for personal injuries. The complaint alleges that by reason of the motorman starting a city street railway car too suddenly as the plaintiff was attempting to board it at the corner of Calhoun and Berry streets, June 20, 1912, he was dragged a distance of 150 feet and so wrenched and bruised that he suffered a dislocated shoulder and other injuries that will be permanent.

Chinamen Plead Guilty.

Joe Quon, Joe Leon and Yet Lee, three chinamen indicted by the "scandal" grand jury last March for contributing to the delinquency of Hazel Thomas and Martha Lugar, young girls who figured largely in the exposures of immorality last winter, pleaded guilty in the circuit court to two charges each this afternoon. Each Chinaman was fined $50 and costs and received a sentence of thirty days in jail on each charge. The jail sentences were suspended and the guilty men made arrangements for payment of their fines.

Asks $10,000 Damages.

James Stapleton has filed suit in the superior court for $10,000 damages against the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad company and Charles H. Minser, an engineer in the employ of that railroad, alleging their responsibility for personal injuries to himself. The plaintiff was a brakeman and while "poling" a cut of nine freight cars, December 20, last year, had his leg crushed. He alleges that the driver brakes on the locomotive were out of repair and that the engineer gave no attention to his signal to stop. As a result he says that the heavy pole used to push the cars was allowed to fall upon him inflicting the injuries described. The complaint is in four paragraphs.

Love Burns Out in Five Months.

In a divorce complaint filed in the superior court Norma Grant sets out that her husband's love burned out within five months after their marriage and that Harold Grant told her he no longer cared for her and ordered her to leave. He then and there deserted her, leaving her without means and she was forced to go out among strangers to earn a living. They were married August 5 of last year and separated February 16 of this.

Tired of Being Kicked Around.

Alice Anderson complains in a divorce suit filed in the superior court that Charles Anderson, her husband, used vile and indecent language, beat and kicked her repeatedly, threw a milk bottle at her head and threatened to kill her. She demands $1,000 alimony and has asked an order of the court to restrain Leo Smith and the Fort Wayne Rolling mills from paying him money due him as an employe. The couple were married in October, 1907, and have just separated.

Notes of the Courts.

The superior court has granted a divorce to Eliza Klerner from George Klerner.

In the circuit court Walter Bowman sues Jacob Hiser on a mechanic's lien, demanding $200.

David Vesey, son of Judge William J. Vesey, has been admitted to the practice of law, the certificate coming from the superior court.

CONFERRED ON JOINT ROAD.

Commissioners Go to Bluffton to Meet Wells County Board.

The Allen county commissioners were in Bluffton this forenoon to take joint action with the Wells county board on the building of the Snyder gravel road, which is on the county line between Marion township, Allen county, and Jefferson township, Wells county. The matter has been pending for two years. The preliminaries were at one time disposed of and bids advertised for, but no one wanted the job. The estimates have been raised and the same viewers —William Wilkie, for Allen county, and John Walker, for Wells county—were again appointed. It is now believed the revised estimates will bring in bids for the work.

DITCH NOT WELL CLEANED.

After making an inspection Trustee Henry Branning, of Wayne township, reports that the Miller ditch, four and one-half miles southwest of the city, has not been properly cleaned. The work was to have been completed the 15th inst. Trustee Branning says that through several farms the landowners have not done the work according to specifications and the work will not be approved until properly performed.

Several trustees of other townships have called on Trustee Branning within the past few days for information respecting the cable dredge with which the Wayne township trustee has been having so much success. They are anxious to purchase similar dredges for their own townships.

FIND FOR THE DEFENDANT.

After hearing the testimony in the case of John Essig against Frank C. Payne, of "The Rose Maid" Opera company today, in attachment proceedings on account assigned by M. E. Rice, manager of the Majestic theater, to the plaintiff, Justice Tancey found for the defendant. The demand was for $38.

settled down to the routine of his office.

Mr. Sulzer gave no intimation where he and his wife would go after leaving the executive mansion. Their friends, however, insisted they would leave Albany tomorrow, probably for the Adirondacks, and after a rest would take up their residence in New York.

A "farewell demonstration" by local Sulzer sympathizers will be held tonight. The demonstration will consist of a parade to the executive mansion and the presentation to the impeached governor of a loving cup.

Sulzer Flays His Foes.

Sulzer last night made his farewell to the people as chief executive in a lengthy diatribe against his enemies.

It was the long-promised statement, which has been bottled up by Sulzer's attorneys since the inception of the impeachment proceedings. In it he reiterates a sweeping denial of charges against him and characterizes the entire proceedings as a farce and a "political lynching."

The ousted executive was served with a copy of the verdict of the impeachment court at the executive mansion—christened by himself "the people's house"—a few minutes before 6 o'clock last night.

"Good; I thank you," he said to the sergeant at arms of the senate, who delivered the document.

Mr. Sulzer, private citizen, will leave the capital probably on Sunday, whither he has not disclosed.

The incoming governor issued a statement in which he said his endeavor would be "to give the people of the state an honest, peaceful, progressive and wise conduct of public affairs."

Blames Murphy for Verdict.

The outgoing executive issued a statement in which he denounced the tribunal which had removed him as "Murphy's high court of infamy."

"Murphy controlled the assebly and ordered the impeachment," he said. "He controlled most of the members of the court, and dictated procedure and wrote the judgment. He was the judge and jury, prosecutor and the bailiff."

Sulzer said his trial was a "political lynching, so far as the Tammanyized part of the court was concerned—the confirmation of a deep political conspiracy to oust me from office."

"A horse thief in frontier days," he said, "would have received a squarer deal."

He characterized the secret sessions of the court as "star chamber proceedings, where the enemies of the state could work for my conviction undiscovered."

Explains Absence from Trial.

He asserted he had not taken the stand in his own defense because he realized his story attacking the Tammany hall leader would be ruled out.

He entered a general denial of all the charges in the impeachment articles denied he ever had asked Allan A. Ryan to obtain the influence of Murphy of Republican State Chairman Barnes to stop the trial; said the testimony of Henry Morganthau could be explained; asserted that every dollar that had been given him during his campaign had been properly accounted for; that he was $75,000 in debt; that he had been "faithful to his trust," and that he "handed back to the people the commission they gave me untarnished and unsullied."

"Had I but served the boss with half the zeal I did the state, William Sulzer never would have been impeached."

"Some of the boys here are in sympathy with the movement," said the man, and while they desire to donate something to the campaign fund, they cannot gevi much. Would you accept as small a sum as $1 from each?"

Mr. Thomas told them that amount would be gladly received, and later in the afternoon a messenger brought $11 to headquarters. This represented eleven individual contributions from the employes of this business establishment.

This spirit of assistance is the sort of help the non-partisan leaders are proud of. It shows there is a sound sentiment favoring non-partisanism and this spirit of assistance has spread to all parts of the city.

Noon Meetings Next Week.

Noon meetings for the coming week have been arranged by the non-partisan cause as follows:

WATER DEPOSIT BEGINS MONDAY

Irresponsible Tenants to Furnish Cash or Bond for Payment.

THE MUNICIPAL NEWS

City Attorney H. G. Hogan is preparing a regulation which will be put in force by the board of works Monday requiring irresponsible persons who use city water to furnish a freeholder's bond or put up a cash deposit to secure the city against loss of water rental. This regulation is pursuant to a resolution adopted by the city council last Tuesday night, requesting the board of works to establish such a regulation. The city has lost much money by the removal of persons from the city and leaving their water rates unpaid.

DEED LAND TO PARK.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Rockhill Donate Lot for Park Approach.

Howell C. Rockhill and Mrs. Valette Rurode Rockhill, his wife, have donated to the city of Fort Wayne lot 68 of Rockhill's second addition for park purposes. Secretary Charles J. Steiss, of the park board, today received the deed for the property. The property donated is on Elm street, near the approach to the foot bridge that leads into Swinney park, and is a part of a block that the park board wants to acquire for the purpose of making a more commodious and beautiful approach to the park from that side. This square of property lies on the west side of Mechanic street, between Elm and Huron streets. Col. D. N. Foster, president of the park board, some time ago purchased with his own money lot 69 of the desired tract, and is holding it until such time as the park board has available funds to make the purchase. Colonel Foster bought the land at the time he did because the owner was preparing to build on it, and it was desired to avert the expense of the improvement when the city should be able to buy. It is believed there may be other donations of lots in this tract. There are four other lots to be acquired.

CHARGED WITH MAIL FRAUD.

Miss Delia Bierch Is Under Arrest at Sunbury, Pa.

Sunbury, Pa., Oct. 18.—Delia Bierch, a young woman whose home is said to be in Aurora, Ill., is in jail here charged by Deputy United States Marshal Sisher, of Sunbury, with using the mails to defraud. It is charged that she wrote to men through matrimonial agencies and promised to marry them. This caused the men to forward money to her and it is alleged that she did not keep her promise but kept the money.

Mr. and Mrs. George Betzler are enjoying a two weeks' visit with relatives and friends at Terre Haute.

Mrs. A. W. Jacobson, of Newcastle, is here on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Rowe, of Downing avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Pierce have returned from their wedding trip which was to eastern points.

In a list of marriage licenses published this week in Kalamazoo, Mich., occur the names of Ralph H. Noll, of that city, and Johanna Adler, of Fort Wayne.

Herrold-Frederick.

The marriage of Miss Lena Frederick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Frederick, of paMles, and Mr. Victor Herrold, of this city, took place at the Lutheran church at Hoagland on October 16, in the presence of many friends and relatives. Rev. Mr. Hassold performed the ceremony. Miss Bertha Frederick and Miss Frieda Weidemann and Messrs. Edwin Herrold and Gustave Frederick were the attendants. A sumptuous wedding dinner was served at the bride's home after the church service. White chrysanthemums, wedding bells and a handsomely frosted wedding cake were conspicuous things of the arrangements which were very pretty and appropriate. The bride and groom will make their home in this city.

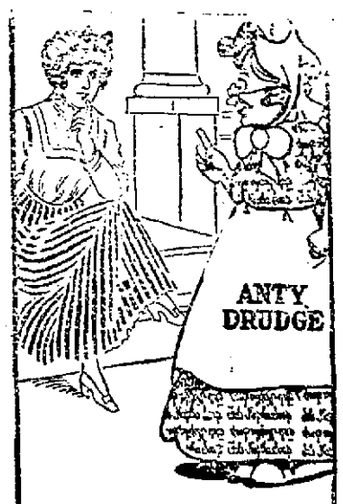
"WHERE FORT WAYNE GETS HER GLASSES"



Sallie Fearful — "I certainly would like to marry Charlie, but I'm scared of the hard work, and I have seen too many girls slave their lives away over washtubs and in hot kitchens and lose all their looks after they married."

Anty Drudge — "Well, you needn't to tell me. Those girls didn't know about Fels-Naptha Soap. You go right ahead and marry Charlie and be happy. I will give you a box of Fels-Naptha to start with, and if you will always use it afterward your hard work will be cut in half and you needn't worry about losing your good looks and not having any time to yourself, either."

If you want to get through your washing in half the time next week, use Fels-Naptha Soap. All you need is cool or lukewarm water—Fels-Naptha will do the rest.

Clothes soaped with Fels-Naptha and put to soak are practically clean when you come to wash them. They don't need hard rubbing or boiling. It is just as good for all kinds of housework.

Better buy it by the box or carton. Follow the easy directions on the Red and Green Wrapper.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

REPUBLICANS NOT NOMINATE TICKET

Voters of That Party in Kendallville Decide to Leave Field to Democrats and Independents.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 18.—The republicans of Kendallville have decided not to nominate a ticket for the municipal election, but will leave the field clear for the democrats and independents, each of which groups already have named candidates. About thirty men attended the republican convention, and some of these were democrats and progressives. Arthur J. Stackhouse, the republican city chairman, called the meeting to order and explained that he had called the convention in that it was part of his duty as chairman to do so, and that he had received no requests from republicans who had affiliated with the citizens' movement, not to.

Mr. Stackhouse was then named chairman of the meeting by acclamation and he called for expressions as to the nominating of a ticket. This call elicited nothing but silence and a few minutes later a motion to adjourn was passed without opposition. "Thus died the republican city ticket," was the expression of several as they left the city building.

With the elimination of the possibility of a republican ticket Kendallville will now select its official family for the ensuing four years from the tickets named by the citizens and democratic party. Leaders of both parties claim they have nominated competent candidates and will now spend the next two weeks in proving the same to the voting public.

AUTO GOES IN DITCH NEAR HERE.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 18.—Charles Bentz received a broken arm and Levi A. Linn suffered painful bruises when the latter's automobile went into the ditch and turned turtle at a point five miles north of Fort Wayne about 10 o'clock Thursday night. The automobile was not damaged and the men were able to drive it home after their injuries were cared for by a Fort Wayne physician. Messrs. Bentz and Linn, engaged in the sale of lighting systems, were en route home from St. Joe and at the scene of the accident they started to pass another automobile going in the opposite direction. The lights of the machine blinded the local men and Mr. Linn drove too near the bank of the ditch, allowing the machine to roll over. Mr. Bentz was thrown clear of the machine, but in his fall the large bone of the left arm was broken about three inches above the wrist.

FATE WAS KIND TO THEM.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 18.—But for a kindness of fate, Clarence Brown and Willis Freeman, two young men of this city, would probably have been blown to atoms when the former, standing with his companion, not more than thirty feet distant, shot twice into an old nitroglycerine can, which, the boys later discovered, contained about five quarts of the deadly explosive. The incident occurred near the site of the old nitroglycerine factory, north of the city. The bullet holes were about two inches above the liquid and the sides of the can were very clean, else an explosion would probably have occurred. Five quarts would have been sufficient to have blown the boys to smithereens and to have jarred the country for miles around.

BOYS HAD DUG LARGE CAVE.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 18.—The attention of Chief of Police Jackson was called to a cave being dug by several boys in the rear of the residence on West Second street occupied by Matt Sheets and family. The chief found about fifteen boys engaged in the occupation, but later when Juvenile Officer Charles Kirk made an investigation he only found a part of the boys, but he did find a cave about six by fifteen feet in dimensions, completed and ready to be used as a "den." Most of the boys engaged in the enterprise have figured in the juvenile court on various occasions and they were warned that it must be filled up, else some of them might find themselves before the court again.

DIES IN HER KITCHEN.

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 18.—Sarah A. Menges, 45, wife of John Jacob Menges, residing on a farm two miles southeast of Bristol, died while in the kitchen of the house, death being due to herat disease. She had been preparingwefikTgan ease. She had prepared breakfast in the usual manner and soon afterward was attacked without warning. Surviving are her husband, two sons, four daughters and a brother.

COLDS

Cold houses, cold offices, cold churches or places of amusement, before the artificial heat is turned on, are the most prolific causes of catching cold.

A vial of "Seventy-seven" in the pocket is the nearest thing to a self heater, because a dose taken at the first chill or shiver will either prevent or break up the Cold at once.

If you wait until your bones begin to ache till you begin to cough and sneeze, it may take longer.

ONCE LIVED IN FORT WAYNE.

Mrs. Martha Lamb, Aged 78, Dies at Daughter's Home in Van Wert.

Van Wert, Ohio, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Martha Lamb, a pioneer resident of this city and county, who was highly esteemed wherever she was known, died here at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. C. Clark, of East Main street. Her death was the almost direct result of a fall which occurred last spring, in which she suffered a fracture of her left hip, the bone being broken in two places. She was given every attention, but owing to her advanced age medical science could do little to effect a cure and could only relieve her sufferings.

Mrs. Lamb was born in Rockford March 1, 1835, and was 78 years of age. She had spent the greater share of her life in this county, having removed to Willshire when but a girl, and later to this city. She also resided in Fort Wayne for a few years, but returned here to pass her declining days with her daughter. She was twice married—first to James W. Major, two children, Mrs. Seamore C. Scott, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Mrs. C. C. Clark, of this city, surviving the union, and later to Mr. W. T. Lamb; one brother, Caleb Work, of Rockford, also survives her. Mrs. Lamb affiliated herself with the M. E. church at an early age and at the time of her death was a member of a church of that denomination at Fort Wayne.

DWELLING HOUSE IS BURNED.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 18.—A dwelling house belonging to William Smith, of Little Chicago, in Jackson township, was completely destroyed by fire. Mr. Smith had been using the house as a store room for merchandise, as he is the owner of a store of that place. The house had been emptied and was being cleaned up as it was to be occupied soon. While the workmen had gone to their dinner a fire started near the stove and had made too much headway for the flames to be put out when discovered. An out building standing away, which contained a load of corn, was also destroyed. The loss was covered by insurance.

RAISED BIG CROP OF ONIONS.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 18.—Harrison Crabill, jr., of Smith township, raised onions and potatoes this year that produced good results. He secured 3,000 bushels of onions, off eight acres of ground, that netted him 65 cents per bushel, and says that it was a short crop this year. Last year he secured 5,000 bushels off the same ground, but the price was much lower.

This year he dug 800 bushels of potatoes off three acres of sandy ground. He planted them on June 10th, and considering the date thinks that he has one of the banner crops of the year.

SYNOD WILL MEET IN AUBURN.

Auburn, Ind., Oct. 18.—The Northern Indiana Lutheran synod will hold its sixtieth annual convention in the city of Auburn on Tuesday, October 13, 1914, according to a decision reached by those in attendance at a synod convention that closed at Camden, Ind., Friday morning. An invitation was extended by the St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church of Auburn and although Albion and Constantine, Mich., were in the race with Auburn, the hub city of DeKalb county was chosen. Rev. A. B. Garman, of the local church, was present and returned home from Camden Friday.

WOMAN DIES AT AGE OF 80.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 18.—Mrs. Catherine Sampsel, aged about eighty years died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. F. DeVol. Mrs. Sampsel had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. DeVol for several years. Death was due to infirmities that accompanied old age. The remains will be taken to Macy, in Miami county, Ohio, where burial will take place. Her former home was near that place. The time for the funeral has not yet been definitely decided.

RATTLESNAKE BIT HIM.

Warsaw, Ind., Oct. 18.—Albert Estep was bitten by a rattlesnake while working on the Max Fries farm, just southwest of this city. The rattler struck him on the left forearm. He was hurried to the office of Dr. C. N. Howard, where his wound was attended. At present there seems to be no serious effects and, as he prevented circulation of the poison by tying a tight bandage around the arm just above the bite, it is thought there will be no dangerous results.

COMBINED AGES OF FOUR 80.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 18.—Four Uniondale pioneers whose ages total three hundred and twenty years, were visitors in Bluffton this afternoon as the guests of Jesse Hite, the Uniondale merchant.

The four men and their ages are as follows: W. J. Nehard, 83; William Gorman, 85; Jonathan Brickley, 79, and J. N. Fryback, 73. All have lived in Uniondale for many years and were brought to the city by Mr. Hite to have their pictures taken.

ITALIAN KILLED AT BIPPUS.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 18.—Breathing but a few hours after being struck by a fast Erie train near Bippus, Rosalina Carraga, about 30 years of age, a native of Italy, died in the Huntington hospital, as the result of injuries to his head. The foreigner, in the employ of the construction companies installing the double track for the Erie railroad, was unconscious when brought to Huntington, in which state he remained until death.

HE TRIED TO SUBDUE BULL.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 18.—H. D. Peters, living north of this city, one mile, suffered a dislocated shoulder while trying to subdue an enraged bull. The animal knocked the owner down twice and the third time Peters grabbed the bull around the neck, when he was thrown through the air, alighting on his shoulders.

DR. CLOKEY WILL APPEAL.

Huntington, Ind., Oct. 18.—Dr. M. C. Clokey, a Huntington physician, was found guilty of attacking Fern Fahl, a 14-year-old girl. The conviction came from an indictment returned by a grand jury in the summer of 1912. The case will be appealed to the supreme court.

FELL FROM WAGON; LEG BROKEN.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 18.—Siebert Simpson, aged 5, son of George Simpson, living four miles east of this city, suffered a broken leg in a fall from a wagon. The wagon passed over the right leg just above the knee, crushing the bones.

Most of these lots are from 1½ to 2 feet higher than the sidewalk.

$25 CASH and $10 PER MONTH

Will secure for you a safe and profitable investment and a beautiful site for a home.

Does This Look Reasonable?———Read It!

About 1794 marked the real beginning of the history of Fort Wayne, when a Fort was established at the confluence of our three rivers.

Accordingly it has taken us 125 years to establish this busy, industrious, enterprising and beautiful Fort Wayne, with its population of 75,000 and $37,000,000.00 of real estate and property assessed for taxation. At the rate our city is growing now, we will have another 75,000, or a total of 150,000 inhabitants in about 20 or 25 years.

Can you imagine the real estate values this tremendous growth will create? Don't you think it will pay you to get into the game too? Real estate is bound to increase in value year by year and net you a good round profit on your money invested.

Look at the tremendous rise in value in the last four and five years, the coming four or five years will do the same thing. Twenty years ago the land on Masterson Ave., E. Williams, E. DeWald and E. Creighton was a circus ground. Look at it today. Ten to fifteen years ago Pontiac St., both east and west, was a cow pasture. Mark the change. Four years ago Wildwood Avenue was practically unknown. Today it is one of our finest resident streets. A few short years from now you will look back at CALHOUN ADDITION and say, "Who in the world would have believed it."

It will PAY YOU WELL to come out tomorrow afternoon and look the lots over. The cash payment and the monthly payment is so small that you can easily afford it. You cannot afford to lose another opportunity.

Take South Calhoun Street to Rudisill Boulevard—the southwest corner.

Leo Saloon Man is Kept in Business by Petitions Signed by Residents of Cedar Creek Township

Say if Liquor Must Be Sold in the Community, They Want the Sale to Be in Hand of a Careful Dispenser of Intoxicants.

"Betcha he can't get nothing over to Pete's."

"Betcha he kin."

"Betcha he can't,' cause Pete don't sell fellows that gets drunk."

This bit of parley on the streets of Leo between a couple of the young hopefuls of this Allen county village is a fair index to the methods of Peter Gerber, who conducts a saloon there and who continues in the business for no other reason than that the people of the community importuned him to continue until they could find a man to succeed him who would conduct the only retail liquor establishment in the town after the same fashion he has carried it on for six years.

Gerber is regarded as a model saloon man and James D. Butt, William C. Schwier and F. William Franke, of the board of county commissioners, stated that they would readily renew his license at any time without the character witnesses required of others engaged in the business if the law permitted.

"Pete," as he is familiarly known, was a timber buyer for a great number of years and is known from one end of Allen county to the other and in the adjoining counties, and his first venture in the saloon trade was when he took hold at Leo.

Mild-Mannered But Firm.

Casual acquaintance with Gerber without knowledge of the business in which he is engaged would never indicate that he sells liquor for a livelihood. He is mild-mannered in the extreme, courteous and polite all the time, but just as firm as he is polite and it is said of him that no one addicted to the excessive use of liquor can buy a drink of him for love or money.

Those who know him never try it and those who do not know him never try it a second time. This article is not intended in any way to advertise his business and he not only did not seek any publicity, but rather tried to shun it, and the story is written for the simple purpose of indicating that the traffic can be controlled and that it would be greatly benefited if others engaged in the trade would adhere to the rules he has lain down and followed.

Why the Petition Was Signed.

In Cedar Creek township there is a strong anti-saloon element, but it has never been strong enough to eliminate the sale of liquor there, and many people who are opposed to the sale of intoxicants on principle recognized that less injury could be done by a man whose record had proven that he would keep within the confines of the law than one who would adhere only to the extent that was necessary to prevent the revocation of his permit.

Gerber is a bachelor and refrains from the use of liquor and one of his rules is to close early in the evening—much earlier, as a rule, than the law requires him to, and the thought of selling on the Sabbath never occurs to him.

He does not extend credit to anybody on the ground that a man whose resources are so limited that he has not the cash to pay for his drinks has no business drinking, and a sign in his place reads: "Our credit department is on the roof. Take the elevator." This is pointed out to people who endeavor to "stand him off."

Among the business men of Leo and with the people generally Gerber stands well and even those whose abhorence of drink and its awful consequences and who are fighting it day and night and who hope eventually that enough votes can be obtained to declare the township dry, hold no personal complaint against him.

Had Rather Have Him Out.

These people want him out of business and in this sentiment they are joined by a vast number of people, but the law gives its sanction to his place and they are powerless to prevent its existence so long as they can not command ballots enough to banish the traffic.

Unless the township goes dry the people say they will try to hold him until they can get "something just as good."

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Psalm 51:1-19.

1 Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving kindness: according unto the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions.

2 Wash me thoroughly from mine iniquities, and cleanse me from my sin.

3 For I acknowledge my transgressions: and my sin is ever before me.

4 Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight: that thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, and be clear when thou judgest.

5 Behold, I was shapen in iniquity; and in sin did my mother conceive me.

6 Behold, thou desirest truth in the inward parts: and in the hidden part thou shalt make me to know wisdom.

7 Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean: wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

8 Make me to hear joy and gladness; that the bones which thou hast broken may rejoice.

9 Hide thy face from my sins, and blot out all mine iniquities.

10 Create in me a clean heart, O God; and renew a right spirit within me.

11 Cast me not away from thy presence; and take not thy holy spirit from me.

12 Restore unto me the joy of thy salvation; and uphold me with thy free spirit.

13 Then will I teach transgressors thy ways; and sinners shall be converted unto thee.

14 Deliver me from blood guiltiness, O God, thou God of my salvation: and my tongue shall sing aloud of thy righteousness.

15 O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall shew forth thy praise.

16 For thou desirest not sacrifice; else would I give it: thou delightest not in burnt offering.

17 The sacrifices of God are a broken spirit: a broken and a contrite heart, O God, thou wilt not despise.

18 Do good in thy good pleasure unto Zion: build thou the walls of Jerusalem.

19 Then shalt thou be pleased with the sacrifices of righteousness, with burnt offering and whole burnt offering; then shall they offer bullocks upon thine altar.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1913.

Make the Victory Complete.

With popular attention up to this time almost wholly centered upon the mayoralty candidates, there may be danger that too little consideration will be given by the voters to the choice of councilmanic candidates. It will not be sufficient to merely defeat Mr. Hosey and elect Mr. Buck as mayor. The full benefit of effective non-partisan government in Fort Wayne can only be attained by taking pains to see that supporting the non-partisan mayor is a substantial working majority of non-partisans in the city council. To choose a non-partisan mayor and then permit his hands to be tied by an antagonistic council which must yield allegiance to a party machine is to win but half a victory and to be forced to be content with much less in the way of good government than is easily attainable if the voters set about to get it.

Mr. Buck as mayor, placing in force his declared policy of non-partisan business efficiency and square deal, can do much for better government and for Fort Wayne's advancement. He can and will apply these principles in making his appointments, and insisting that his various boards carry out exactly the same purpose in the administration of their departments. But in order to do this effectively, it will be necessary on many occasions to have the co-operation of a city council inspired by the same conception of its duty to the people. There will be needed a city council majority absolutely freed from partisan obligation and concerned only in aiding to place the city government on an efficiency basis, without regard to the political fortunes of any man or the future of this political party organization or that. It is highly desirable that the rout of partisanism be complete, in order that non-partisanism be given a fair chance to make good, as the people will very reasonably demand that it do. Give thorough consideration to the councilmanic phase of the campaign.

Washington dispatches carry the information that Hon. N. W. Gilbert has cabled his resignation as vice governor of the Philippines and that it has been accepted by the president, though official announcement of the fact has not yet been made. The Fort Wayne man is credited with an exemplary administration of his position in the Orient, and it might have been possible that the president would decide to retain him. However, Mr. Gilbert perhaps figured that the element of uncertainty in the case constituted too fragile a support upon which to pin abiding faith in the prospect of clinging much longer to so inviting a political plum as the one he has held for so many years.

Doubtless after all it is a trifle difficult for Mr. Thomas, Mr. Scheiman, Judge Aiken and others to figure out just how their administration of county office becomes a legitimate issue in the present city campaign. Not one of them is a candidate for any place, and it is hardly probable that any one of them could be induced to accept a municipal appointment if it were served up on a silver salver.

Ousted from his office as governor of New York by impeachment, Mr. Sulzer, in a statement, blames Murphy, the Tammany chieftain, for his downfall. The country was already pretty well assured of that before the pronouncement by the deposed executive, but it will be admitted that the job had to be charged to somebody.

The charge that the non-partisans are planning to wreck the municipal lighting plant and turn canal water into the waterworks mains, could have been most fittingly deferred until Hallowe'en, which is the time-honored bugaboo season.

A STORY OF HEROISM.

(New York World.)

The tales of passengers of the Grosser Kurfurst and of men whom her boats rescued from the Volturno do more than the modest recitals of Captain Inch and Second Officer Lloyd to fill in the details of a splendid story of heroism.

The crew are cleared of the half-delirious charges made by the first of the Volturno's passengers to reach shore. Panic with them was momentary, and apparently confined to the fire room. They died at duty, cut off by flames, killed in the explosion, drowned in the boats first launched. Those that were left stuck to their grim work; and it was four of them that, with Officer Lloyd, first rowed in the darkness across the wild water to show the waiting fleet that it could be done.

Panic there was among the passengers. Men rushed the first boats; later, when the work of rescue was well organized, they had to be pushed into the sea to be pickel up, as they would not jump. Women who had seen the earlier efforts end in death refused to enter the boats and had to be compelled to jump to safety. Rough work, but necessary. And what eagerness in the rescuing fleet, with one possible exception, to man the boats; what kindliness in the reception of the refugees! Praise is due the splendid seamanship that brought ten rolling ships so close in a smashing sea without collision, dropping their boats to windward and circling to leeward to pick them up again with perfect judgment so that no soul was lost that the sailors could reach.

Something remains to be said about the manner in which an inflammable cargo was stored and protected from fire; about equipment for fighting the flames; about the possibility of using life-lines in such conditions. But the conduct both of the wrecked and rescuing crews is a record that honors all that helped to make it.

THE BUGGY AND THE AUTO.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Notwithstanding the report from Chicago that there are over 3,000 less horses in that town than a year ago and about as many more motor driven vehicles, any assumption that the predictions of the passing of the horse, so confidently asserted a few years ago, is at last to be verified will be premature. The Chicago Builders' National association, now in session in St. Louis, reports that the statistics of the trade for 1913 show more horse-drawn pleasure vehicles manufactured and sold in the United States than in any year in the history of carriage building. Further, the declaration is made that the automobile has not injured the carriage business, but in fact has helped it by the increasing agitation for better roads. Improved roads mean an increase in the demand for horse-drawn pleasure vehicles in the rural districts where the motor car, the report adds, cannot take the place of the horse and where the horse-drawn vehicle will remain the popular conveyance.

This expression of not disinterested opinion is less convincing, however, than the figures, which seem to justify the assertion that "buggy manufacturers do not look upon the automobile as a rival." If, with all the hundreds of thousands of motor cars turned out annually, the buggy production soars to new records it must seem demonstrated that there is room for both, just as the horse retains his value notwithstanding the inroads made upon his avenues of employment by the pleasure car and the motor truck.

OUR GENTLE PROCESS OF UPSETTING NATURE.

In the electrical show in New York city one of the interesting exhibits is a method of producing artificial light invented by a Frenchman named Claude. It is announced, modestly, that Claude has cheated the sun and copied its rays and is producing daylight.

The tremendous strides in artificial lighting in the last two decades are a matter of marvel to the elderly citizens who remember the first installation of the "London gas lamp." But science has more things in store which will make the illumination of today look as insignificant as the rushlight of two centuries ago.

Science brings its wonders, but it brings its drawbacks as well. One may ponder whether the conversion of night into day, by artificial illumination, will serve any highly useful purpose. That it will further break down the distinctions between the two twelve-hour periods, in the minds of pleasure seekers, is certain.

But what about the physical loss to the human being? Nature may be cheated by man's penetration of her secrets and his duplications of her mysteries, but she takes her revenge from man himself in a weakened vitality among the people who, because of science's creations, defy the normal laws of physical life.

NOONDAY MEETING

Tuesday, Oct. 21st—Western Gas Construction Co. Wm. J. Hosey, W. S. O'Rourke and H. W. Keer.

Mr. Buck on Municipal Ownership

To the Voters of the City of Fort Wayne:

A most important plank of the Non-Partisan platform reads:

"MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP."

"We pledge ourselves to the maintenance and improvement of our present municipally owned water and electric light plants; we favor the extensions of the water mains and electric light lines to the farthest corners and limits of the city that none may be denied its benefits, as fast as the growth of the city makes such extensions practicable on a fair business basis. We further believe that the price for service to the people should be at the least possible cost consistent with good business management, having in view the maintenance anad upkeep."

The progress of the Non-Partisan movement in Fort Wayne has been such that the most malicious and wilful lies have been circulated, to discredit it. Chief among these has been the story that we are in a conspiracy to sell out the electric light and water plants, now owned by the city. The conclusive answer to this baseless charge is that such plants can neither be established nor sold, under the law, without submitting the same to the people in a regular or special session, as the Hosey supporters learned to their embarrassment eight years ago, and as every well informed voter knows.

The history of the electric light plant shows the following facts: After two years of Hosey control, on January 1, 1910, there were in force only 857 commercial contracts; on October 1, 1913, in the hands of the "enemy," there were 3150 contracts. Street lights have been increased from 465 on January 1, 1910, to 617 on October 1, 1913, and to this have been added 46 alley lamps and 188 ornamental posts, things never heard of under the Hosey administration. Even carrying this load, our municipal electric lighting plant, under the splendid improvements and additions that have been made in the last three years, is carrying only half the load of which it is capable, without additional equipment. Plans have been perfected to establish an additional 3000 kilowat turbine, and, while this is not immediately necessary, it would place the plant in a position to give uninterrupted service, no matter what accidents befell the present equipment. The financial returns from this plant must be particularly interesting to the taxpayer and consumer, for the reason that for the six months, ending June 30, 1913, the net earnings, over and above the expense, were $30,368.37, as shown by the report of the City Comptroller, and the plant is now averaging better than $5,000.00 per month of net earnings.

In less than two years, under friendly management, commercial contracts can be secured to consume the entire capacity of this plant. It will then be making a net earning of $10,000.00 to $12,000.00 per month, and there is no question in the world but that the rate to the small consumer can be decreased from 8 cents to 6 cents per kilowat hour.

Singularly enough, and to the great confusion of our opposition, the waterworks plant has thrived wonderfully in the hands of its alleged "enemies," and never in the history of Fort Wayne has the plant been so efficient as during the past summer. For proof of this, we need only quote the language of the Hosey press:

"* * * * * for the first time in many years, it has not been necessary to issue an order for patrons to be conservative in their use of water.

"In former years the department has even gone so far as to forbid sprinkling of lawns and streets so that the reserve in the city reservoir might not be diminished, * * * * * The new pump PLACED AT NO. 3 ENGINE HOUSE LAST YEAR—with a capacity of 3,000,000 gallons daily—relieved the old condition, and no water famine is now possible, * * * * * *" (Journal-Gazette, July 2, 1913.)

With results such as these, secured under partisan control—how much more can be achieved under a non-partisan administration, with all good citizens working in harmony for the welfare of all. Personally, I consider it necessary and am heartily in favor of sinking wells in the southeastern portion of the city and there establishing an additional pumping station to take care of the rapid growth of our city in that direction.

No influence has ever been directed towards me, or suggested, to mould my views in reference to this important subject of municipal ownership of our electric light and water plants. I pledge the people that nothing shall be done during my administration to injure them or retard their growth, but that every effort will be made to improve the splendid showing made, as above outlined. All rumors and stories to the contrary are manufactured out of whole cloth and can influence or deceive only the unthinking and uninformed voter.

—Adv. CHARLES H. BUCK.

PROF. E. KOEPPEL IS NEW ORGANIST

Succeeds John B. Archer at First Presbyterian Church.

OTHER CHURCH NEWS

After careful consideration the music committee of the First Presbyterian church has selected Prof. Emil Koeppel, of Thorold, Canada, to succeed John B. Archer as organist and choir director of the church. Prof. Koeppel comes here with high recommendations of his ability as a musician and teacher of music. He has studied with A. S. Vogt, of Toronto, Can., and other eminent teachers.

PROF. EMIL KOEPPEL.

While a pupil of Prof. Weinrich and Prof. Teichmueller, of Leipzig, Germany, he studied the pipe organ with Karl Straube, organist of the Thomas Kirche, the church in which Bach played.

Prof. Koeppel is a young man of Canadian birth, but Mrs. Koeppel, who accompanies him to Fort Wayne, is a young American woman, the granddaughter of the late Judge Blake, of Peru, and a niece of Rev. Charles W. Blake, pastor of the Madisonville Presbyterian church, Cincinnati, O. She is in complete sympathy with her husband's work, and is a teacher of the Fletcher method for beginners and children. The new organist has had thorough experience as a teacher of the piano and pipe organ, also as a director of music in various American colleges. He has been eminently successful in directing choruses, orchestras, operettas, glee clubs, etc. Prof. and Mrs. Koeppel will have their studio for the present at 711 West Berry street.

He will preside over the organ at both services at the church tomorrow, and will give an organ recital in the church within a few weeks.

Upwards of one hundred ladies were invited to the Country Club this afternoon by Mrs. Emil F. Keller and Mrs. Samuel E. Mulholland to hear Miss Dorothy B. Wilson, of Chicago, give dramatic and dialect readings. Miss Wilson is a clever monologist and her recital gave great pleasure to the company. The clubhouse was decorated with many chrysanthemums and with autumn foliage arranged with much taste. Mrs. Keller and Mrs. Mulholland received the guests and after the program by Miss Wilson tea and other refreshing things were served. The entertainment was a departure from the frequent bridge affair and the customary reception and as the guests did not know what was coming the surprise as well as the charm of the affair made it one of the most delightful of the season.

One of the large and important weddings of the coming week will take place on Tuesday in St. Paul's Lutheran church in the marriage of Miss Alma Doehrman and Arthur Charles Scheiman. The hour of the ceremony is 7 o'clock and there will be a musical half hour preceding the entrance of the bridal party which will be given by Miss Bertha Pageler with Prof. Waller at the organ. A. G. Schroeder, of Grand Rapids, Mich., a brother-in-law of the groom, will act as master of ceremonies, and the ushers will be Edward and Martin Doehrman, Charles Jacobs and Harry Ranke. Miss Luella Doehrman will be maid of honr, Mrs. Walter Bauer of Chicago, the matron of honor and Miss Frieda Scheiman, the bridesmaid. Mr. Scheiman has selected his brother, Paul, to be best man. Relatives and intimate friends will extend congratulations to the bride and groom at the bride's home in Washington boulevard east, after the church service. Rev. Jacob Miller will be the officiating minister. Guests who have arrived to attend the wedding are Rev. and Mrs. Enoch Schroeder and Miss Becker, of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Schroeder, of Grand Rapids, and Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mahon, of Toledo, O.

Another church wedding of the week will be that of Miss Agnes Stemen and Bruce W. Elliott which will take place at the First Presbyterian church on Thursday evening at half past 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. D. W. Moffat will perform the ceremony. Mrs. James E. Elliott, a friend of the bride, will preside at the organ. The bride will have but one attendant, Mrs. Francis Compton, of Elkhart, and Mr. Elliott has chosen his brother, Wilbur Elliott, of Chicago, to act as best man. There will be a reception at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. George B. Stemen, of West Main street.

* * *

Many people who are friends of the families of both bride and groom to be, Miss Jessie Hill Orr and Herbert Wagenhals, have unusual interest in their wedding, which will take place a week from tomorrow night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Orr, of West Wayne street. A sister of the bridegroom, Miss Mildred Wagenhals, and a special friend of the bride, Miss Jeannette Stacey, of Cincinnati, will be bridesmaids. The bride's brother, Onslow Orr, will be best man and Roy Tigar, of Chicago, will act as master of ceremonies. The groom's father, Rev. Dr. Wagenhals, will perform the marriage ceremony and the bride's pastor, Rev. H. B. Master, will assist during the marriage service. A number of lovely parties have been given in honor of Miss Orr and beautiful flowers have been a feature in each instance. At Miss Knight's party yesterday a corsage bouquet of pale yellow rosebuds and violets was an exquisite floral gift and today at the entertainment of a dozen young women by Miss May Jewell Smith the gift was in fancy basket form, with white tulle bows tied to the handle. The basket was filled with white rosebuds. Miss Smith also gave a bouquet of pink roses and snapdragon for the prize to the winner of the bridge game and each tally card had a white carnation tied to it. White was the color that appeared in a tempting supper served at the close of this afternoon party.

One of the much admired brides-elect of the coming week is Miss Gertrude Thompson, whose marriage to Frank Henry Sheets, of Newcastle, Pa., will be a home affair at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening. Mrs. L. Earl Thompson, a sister-in-law of the bride, has been selected as the honor attendant and the bride will have besides Mrs. Thompson a ring bearer, little Margaret Metzner. The bridegroom will be attended by his cousin, Byron Sheets, of Erie, Pa. Mrs. H. K. Diefenbach, of Bluffton, will play the wedding music and the bride's brother, Earl Thompson, will sing. The officiating clergyman will be Rev. Dr. A. K. Zartman. Guests from away who are coming to the wedding and will arrive the first of the week are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sheets and daughter, Mildred, of Beaver Falls, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. William Appleton, Mrs. Thomas Hillier, Charles Hillier and Mr. and Mr. William Mawer, all of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, and Mrs. Charles Beavel, of Newcastle, Pa. The last of several prenuptial parties in honor of Miss Thompson was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Charles Paul, of South Webster street. The young ladies sewed and during the time singing of several numbers by Mrs. McClellan, of Indianapolis, gave much pleasure to the company. A charmingly arranged table at supper, with red flowers and candles prevailing and red roses for the coming bride, were other special things of the afternoon.

Roy Shirk, Ralph Teeple, Clarence Strodel, Harry Keever, Sylvester Klotz, Jay Fish and Hazen Johnson.

Miss Mary Huhn was the guest of honor at a china shower given Thursday evening by Misses Frieda Bueker and Alice Frey. The evening was very pleasantly spent in playing progressive bunco and various contests. Miss Anna Lauer furnishing the music. Decorations were carried out in yellow and white. Covers were laid for ten, and a luncheon was served. The centerpiece was a bride's cake and small baskets filled with candy hearts were given as favors. Those who enjoyed this affair included the Misses Kathryn Gibson, Elizabeth Janson, Lena Stein, Rose Snyder, Mathilda Bueker, Genevieve Rohyans, Kathryn Janson and Elizabeth Stein.

James S. Peddicord, who is a member of the Wayne Coterie, a club of young unmarried men who are occupying the Bass residence in West Berry street, gave a party to a number of his friends last evening in celebration of his birthday anniversary. A theater party at the Temple, an informal reception afterwards at the coterie residence and a supper and dance at the Anthony hotel after that was the order of entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. Grubb and Mrs. Thompson acted as chaperons. The invited guests were: Misses Marie Bresnahan, Marie Calkins, Irene Comparet, Bonnie Druhot, Viola Hergenroether, May Lancaster, Irene Malloy, Marie Miller, Jessie Orrock, Irma Pool, Clara Piepenbrink and Ambrose Bohay, Clifford Bomchein, Frank DeHaven, Carl J. Getz, Fred Higgins, E. P. Ruff, Louis Scattergood, Glenn Smiley, Ralph Thieme and Leland Wilkins.

Miss Lucile Cook, formerly of Bluffton, but a resident of Fort Wayne for two years, announced her engagement to Gaylord S. Morton, a bookkeeper at the Hamilton National bank at a beautiful party she gave last evening at the Anthony hotel. Miss Cook's grandmother, Mrs. Martha Hatfield, of Bluffton, and her sister, Miss Clara Cook, of Chicago, were here to assist in receiving the guests. The entertainment was a musicale and supper. There were about thirty guests. Miss Cook is a milliner and has been engaged as a designer at the Gaskill store and also in the wholesale house of the C. T. Pidgeon company. She has made many friends during her residence in this city and congratulations at the engagement announcement were accompanied by many wishes for her future happiness. The guests were Miss Edna Bowers, of Paulding, O.; Miss Muriel Staver, of Ligonier; Miss Helen Cook, Miss Justine Cook, Miss Hermine Weicking, Miss Ruth Spaulding, Mrs. Bessie Hatfield, of Bluffton; Miss Lillith A. Gaskill, Miss Mary Michel, Miss Louise Ecker, Miss Elsie Linnemeier, Miss Gertrude Getz, Miss Lucinda Auer, Miss Nora German, Miss Christine Betzel, Miss Lene and Miss Lillian Marsh, Miss Elenore King, Miss Helen Medsker, Miss Rose Bender, Miss Katherine Cunningham, Miss Anna Hoadley, Miss Renah Werstein, Miss Lillian Jacobs, Miss Mary Davis, Miss Elizabeth Rawley, Mrs. R. M. Hare, Mrs. T. B. Erick, Mrs. Pearl Roggen and Mrs. Lottie Ferguson.

Parent-Teacher Clubs.

The first meeting of the year of the Harmer school parent-teacher club will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. A paper on "School Inspection" will be read by Dr. J. H. Gilpin and a talk on school dress will be given by Mrs. Turner. There will also be a discussion of the warning blank. All mothers and friends of the district are urged to attend the meeting.

The parent-teacher club of the Hanna school will hold its first social meeting on Friday evening at 7:45. Classes of the school in physical culture, in domestic science and in manual training will demonstrate their work. All parents and friends of the district are invited to see this interesting program.

Woman Can Have a Beautiful Neck if She Will Pay as Much Attention to It as She Does to Her Face," Says Billie Burke.

(By Billie Burke.)

Now has come the time when a girl shows even more of her throat than she has this summer and she finds that it is tanned and ugly.

A very distinguished artist of my acquaintance, after glancing over an assemblage of women in evening dress, said: "I wonder why most women pay so much attention to their faces and so little attention to the remainder of their bodies."

"Look about you," he continued, "and you will not see ten beautiful throats in this room, although I will say that since the edict of fashion has been 'no collars,' there has been an improvement in the necks of the average woman."

It is harder work to take care of your throat than your face. Even if you patronize a beauty shop you will find that the operators only gives your throat the most superficial care, while she expends a full hour on your face.

For the girl whose throat is scrawny and not smooth there is nothing better than to annoint it plentifully at night with cold cream and then pin a piece of kid about it.

You know how beautifully smooth the wearing of kid gloves at night, after you have rubbed them with cold cream, makes your hands. Well, the kid about your throat acts in the same way. It keeps your throat in a slight perspiration for hours.

You can take the end of a long kid glove that is worn out for this purpose.

Always rub your throat from the chin back to the ears and from the chin down toward the bust and back to the arm pits.

If you have a fat neck pick up little pieces of the flesh and roll it between your thumb and first fingers. Don't do this too strenuously, and after you have gone over your whole throat in this manner pat it with a cloth wet in spirits of camphor.

There is nothing better to whiten the throat than a pint of whey of sour milk. To this add a half ounce of peroxide and ten drops of benzoin. You can add a little of your favorite perfume if you object to the odor of sour milk.

Don't think, however, that any of these remedies are worth anything if you only use them once or twice. Persistence in the use of a remedy means quite as much in the cure as does the remedy itself.

Notes of Study Clubs

The regular meeting of the Duodecimo club has been postponed a week on account of the convention of the state federation next week. Dr. Carrie Banning will attend as delegate from this club.

The Current Literature club will meet on Tuesday afternoon with Miss Flora Heller, Washington boulevard west.

The General Culture club will meet on Thursday with Mrs. W. C. Dugley. Mrs. Erwin and Mrs. Brink have the program.

The Morning Musical society will have its opening active members' recital on Friday morning in Elks hall. Miss Kay Spencer has charge of the program.

Mrs. Coverdale will be hostess for the Travel club on Monday. Mrs. Langford and Mrs. Clear have the program.

The Fortnightly club has a meeting on Monday evening with an important paper on "Conservation of Human Life and Energy" by Dr. M. F. Porter. Dr. McCaskey, Miss Wilber, Dr. Bulson and Dr. Jessie Calvin are down for the discussion of the paper.

Mrs. Arthur Smith, of West Wayne street, will be the hostess for a meeting of the Nineteenth Century club on Tuesday. Mrs. Elwin Hulse assists in the program.

WILL SPEAK AT CONVENTION.

Prominent Educators on Program For Meet of Mothers Clubs.

A number of well known educators of the state have been engaged to address the coming convention of the Parent-Teacher associations and Mothers' clubs of Indiana which will meet in convention in this city Nov. 13 to 15 inclusive. The meetings will be held in the First Baptist church and will be open to every person interested in child welfare. At the evening sessions the following speakers will be heard: Supt. Carroll Brown of Indianapolis, who represents the Goods Road Campaign; Dr. Bryan, of Indiana university; Dr. Emerson, of the Indiana School of Medicine. It is also expected that Miss Brochhausen, a teacher of great repute in Indiana, will present the point of view of the teacher in the discussion of the Parent-Teacher associations on Saturday morning. Persons willing to take delegates for two nights' lodging and two breakfasts free of charge will please notify the accommodation committee, chairman, Mrs. Conrad Houeck, telephone, Blue 6351.

MRS. CLARK FAIRBANK.

FRIENDS URGING MRS FAIRBANK

She is Suggested as Next President of Indiana Federated Clubs,

IS NOW SECRETARY

"Well, you surely look the part of corresponding secretary for the Indiana State Federation of clubs," remarked a caller to Mrs. Clark Fairbank when she was ushered into her library on a recent afternoon and found that energetic club woman nearly smothered with the official stationery of the federation.

Mrs. Fairbank laughed, and laid down her pen.

"Well, if you think for a moment that interest in this state federation of ours is dying out, forget it, for it's not so. Never in the years that I have known of federation work here in the Twelfth district have women been so impressed with the value of the federation, of concerted work or of the importance of dealing with live issues. Why, no one talks of old, dried up matters anymore."

"Woman's suffrage instead?" queried the visitor.

"Oh, no, not that by any means, but problems in child welfare, household economics, legislative matters—you know them. I need not enumerate. What I mean is, women of today are not devoting their time in delving into the archives of Egypt, second hand of course, or making explorations into Pompeii and her buried sister, or rummaging in libraries through encyclopedias and volumes of mythology. Women today are terribly in earnest about all up-to-date topics—"

"Even tangoing?" interrupted the caller.

"Our daughters are," she laughed, "but just to prove to you that this federation meeting in Indianapolis next week is really a live thing, I'll tell you that unfederated clubs numbering five-hundred members have made application for membership in the state body within ten days. Why, there are over sixteen thousand club women in the Indiana federation. The organization has increased between two and three thousand in membership since the federation was held in Fort Wayne a year ago. We thought that meeting was a large one and it was one of the very best in the history of the federation but we expect six hundred more delegates next week."

"I am sufficiently impressed," said her listener, "and will never again suggest that the club women of Indiana are ever taking a look backward. But will you tell me what you believe to be the principal cause of the strength of the move toward federation just now? It is the question of the elective franchise?"

"I do not believe so, though that question is gaining adherents in numbers that would surprise you if you knew them. It is coming up in good earnest again and maybe there'll be strong opposition. I think the real strength of the club movement in Indiana comes through its organization. Every district has its chairman and its secretary treasurer. Besides there is a chairman for every county, all of whom are in touch with the officers of the state organization. So, you see every district has three officers whose business it is to keep things moving. Mrs. C. L. Stouder of Columbia City, is the Twelfth district chairman and Miss Clara Gilbert, of Kendallville, is the secretary-treasurer."

"To be sure, to be sure," replied the seeker of news. "You grew so eloquent about the federation I nearly forgot what I came to find out. It is true as Mrs. Stouder stated in her letter to club women of the district that you are a candidate for the office of president of the federation?"

"Sh-h-h! Forget you asked me for I have nothing to say except that I was as much surprised as you to read my name mentioned as a candidate in Mrs. Stouder's letter."

Then the corresponding secretary shut her lips and refused to open them on that topic. This is what Mrs. Stouder wrote however concerning the office and a possible candidate:

"The presidents of the federation since its organization in 1906 have held in a remarkable degree the affection and co-operation of the women of the state. Each has been admirably fitted to meet the requirements of her term and each in turn has made a lasting impression on the federation. In mentioning Mrs. Clark Fairbank for this office stress has been laid on her unusual financial ability and the need of the federation for an executive skilled in finances to meet the demand of the coming year. We of her district know her to be equally fitted to meet the requirements of this important position."

MOTHERS HEAR HELPFUL TALKS

Prof. Study and Miss Armstrong, of Indianapolis, the Speakers.

REPORTS ARE MADE

Emphasizing the idea that the parent and not the community is responsible for what the child does or becomes, Prof. J. N. Study drove more than the plain truth home to his listeners at a meeting of the Mothers' club in the Y. W. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Probably no more practical and helpful talk has ever been given before the club than Prof. Study's.

If the Mothers' clubs do no better thing than to try to stir up the people of Fort Wayne and of Indiana, and impress parents with the duty that is theirs, in making the home the place where the child receives its best and most lasting influence, they will accomplish that which is needed more than is often realized.

Mr. Study advocated the old fashioned home, the home where the children studied their lessons, played their games, read their books and papers and visited with their parents. The modern tendency to shift to the shoulders of teachers, community workers or Young People's Christian associations the things that are by their very nature inherent in the home, Mr. Study deplored. He advocated the working of the teacher and the parent together, in securing regular attendance at schools, in instilling a respect for law and for authority, in promptness and respect for the teacher and the parent. He spoke of the duties of the school to the child the necessary sympathy between parent and child and between parent and teacher. In reference to the care of the teacher for the child, he cited a case of recent happening in this city where a child was sent home because of manifest throat trouble the disregard of the parent to consider the possible seriousness of what seemed but a slight ailment and the subsequent death of the child.

Following Prof. Study, Miss Mary Armstrong, of Indianapolis, gave a brief demonstration and explanation of the Dunning system of musical training for young children, or for adults with some variation in the work. Miss Armstrong's talk was illuminating. Her listeners were charmed with the ideas and methods she explained and many wished they could take lessons of her, believing that practicing would cease to be a bugbear and technical studies would become fascinating. Miss Armstrong explained how Mrs. Dunning went abroad to study with the greatest teacher of technique, Leschetiszky, and how, later, after she had evolved her ideas of teaching children, she won the great pianist's entire approval and sanction. The Dunning system is not confined to one or two phases of musical instruction, but includes the training of the ear and the eye, the development of fingers and wrist, harmony, theory, musical histry, rhythm. Nothing is learned merely as a matter of place or sound. The child learns concentration. Ideas are drawn from the children instead of having their heads filled with ideas of other people. In fact intelligence is as much a part of the development as any point of musical training.

Neither does this system appear as one fitted only to the child of marked musical talent. Quite to the contrary, it is easy to understand how even the child of little of so-called "ear" for music might become really an intelligent musician. Miss Armstrong's talk was exceedingly well received. She is the normal instructor of the Dunning system for the middle west.

Reports of committees working toward the coming convention of the Indiana branch of Mothers' clubs and Parent-Teacher associations were read, with Mrs. Simon Ackerman, presiding. Everything was encouraging and the interest in the work of the convention is fast becoming general. Miss Calmerton announced the reasons for a change in the picture shown for children which will be at the Colonial theater a week from today. Among the films to be run then will be Pandora and the box of mischief.

The THEATRE

Six More Keith and Orpheum Headline Acts Start New Bill at Temple

Starting next week will be the second week of the Temple theater's big six-act vaudeville show and from the looks of the bill the second week will even surpass the high standard set by the acts during the first week. To say that the six acts offered for the first and last half of last week were excellent is putting it mildly and the people showed their appreciation of the Keith and Orpheum headline acts by packing the house at every night performance. The bill for the first half of the coming week will be headed by what has often been termed the greatest act in vaudeville, and that is Coin's dogs. These dogs produce the pantomime drama and scenic production, "It Happened in Dogville." The startling and almost unbelievable part of this act is that, although the dogs are on the stage for ten minutes, enacting their part in this little playlet, there is not a human being in view in all that time. The dogs go through all their work without a command, and as yet they have never made a blunder. It is truly a wonderful act and one that is sure to please every one, especially the kiddies.

After much wiring and cancelling of dates in other large cities, the management of the Temple theater has succeeded in obtaining the Rossdell Singers as an extra added attraction. This act comes direct from the Keith circuit and is known all through the east as vaudeville's classiest trio. It is this trio that was held over at the Hammerstein roof garden earlier in the season for four weeks, because of the demand of the patrons of that house, and then, three weeks later, was brought back there for a return date. And it is such acts as this that the Temple is giving the patrons of this popular house, and will continue giving them.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Esmonde will present the beautiful dramatic playlet, "The Soldier of Propville." Mr. and Mrs. Esmonde have in this act one that contains a wealth of dramatic merit which leaves a lasting impression. It is of a kind seldom seen on a vaudeville stage and for this reason is a welcome and acceptable diversion. It is more than an ordinary sketch, being distinctly in a class by itself. Mrs. Esmonde brings to the character of Veritas Quill a strong and pleasing personality, and Mr. Esmonde is known as one of the best portrayers of old men characters on the stage.

Lambert and Van, singing and talking comedians, have something entirely new for the people of Fort Wayne and will certainly be a great hit. This pair put over some new jokes at nearly every performance and always have their audiences in an uproar.

Young Bros., the grotesque comedy acrobats, will have the audience laughing till their sides split one minute, and the next they will be gasping for breath over some hair-splitting trick this team performs. This act is a sure winner because of the clever work and the comedy interspersed.

Particola and Meyers, the well known comedians, have something entirely new and everywhere they have been seen over the Keith and Orpheum time they have been a great hit, so they are sure to please the people here.

On Monday afternoon another souvenir matinee will be held, at which time every lady attending the show will be presented with a fine Japanese after-dinner teacup and saucer. The crowds at the souvenir matinees have been exceptionally large, so if you want to get a seat you must be sure and come early.

Thursday afternoon an entirely new bill of six acts will be shown, headed by two of the Keith circuit's biggest acts, "High Life in Jail" and "An Evening in Honolulu." "High Life in Jail" was written by that clever author, M. Simons, and is one of the funniest sketches in vaudeville. Six real comedians are in the cast and if they can't make you laugh no one can. Lloyd Childs' presentation, "An Evening in Honolulu," comprises six Hawaiian vocalists and instrumentalists and dancers. This is an awfully classy act and has been an exceptionally big drawing card all over the Keith circuit. Besides this, four more Keith and Orpheum acts have been booked and the show promises to be the best ever presented in Fort Wayne, although it would take some show to beat any of those presented for the past week at the Temple.

ENDERLE A SUICIDE.

Paulding County Ohio Farmer Said He Was "Downhearted."

William F. Enderle, the Paulding county Ohio farmer whose lifeless body was found in the yard at the home of his brother-in-law, Fred Eberling, near Zulu, Friday afternoon, was a victim of suicide. When reports of his death reached Fort Wayne yesterday it had not been determined whether he died by accident or took his own life. The only reason relatives are able to give as to the cause of his rash deed is that he complained of feeling "downhearted." Mr. Enderle was trustee of Payne township, Paulding county, and with his wife and children planned to visit over Sunday at the home of Mr. Eberling.

The remains have been removed to Antwerp, O., for burial.

Real Bear is Booked to Head New Week's Offering at the Empress

"Big Jim" is sure "some bear." A real bear and a whopping big bear, a bruin with all the ambling, shambling, ungainly and keen humor of his species. "Big Jim" is the announced headliner for the forthcoming week at the Empress theater and if the Detroit newspapers are to be relied upon, "Big Jim" is easily the strongest magnet for attracting crowds the Sullivan & Considine house has yet had. "Big Jim" is a native of the Maine forests and was discovered by William Hammerstein, for the latter's "Victoria" theater in New York. This fellow Hammerstein has a faculty for uncovering more real vaudeville novelties than any other vaudeville manager in the world and the fact that he retained the big bear for a period of four weeks at his big house at 42th and Broadway is proof positive that "Big Jim" is a marvel. First of all "Big Jim" is a wrestler. He will meet all comers on the Empress stage during the coming week, barring neither weight, race, creed nor color, the only stipulation being that his opponent must not tackle him, for his sense of humor is so marked that he may laugh himself to death. Probably you do not believe that "Big Jim" can laugh, but to see this shaggy, good natured comedian bare his dangerous looking tusks in a silly grin, is convincing enough that "Big Jim" has the power of facially expressing his mirth. Along with his other talents "Big Jim" is a Tango dancer. He is also familiar with the "Turkey Trot" and was the original "Grizzly Bear" dancer of the universe. The average animal act, to many has lost its charm, but in the performance of "Big Jim" laughs come in such rapid succession that one forgets its an animal act he is watching.

The Empress established a high standard of shows from its opening day and there has never for a moment been a let down. Every week, patrons know that they are going to see a good show. Every act is of known quality and the shows are always perfectly balanced.

Making up the sextette of acts in addition to "Big Jim" will be the well known one act playlet, "At Huckin's Run." As presented by Walsh, Lynch & Co., this little rural farce becomes one of the classics of vaudeville. It has been aptly called "The Old Homestead" of vaudeville, and it will undoubtedly remain upon the vaudeville stage as long as there is love and appreciation of truth and fair play in the heart of the American show going public. During the twenty minutes this playlet holds the boards there is comedy, pathos, melodrama and melody delightfully interwoven.

Leonard and Louie, the somewhat different gymnasts, make another feature for the new bill. The act is full of surprises, for its a gymnastic act presented in the west out of the ordinary fashion.

Luigi Dell'Oro, musical virtuoso, will spread his feast of harmony as still another feature. Dell'Oro is not only a musician of wonderful technique and power but is also an inventor, having designed and constructed a new type of harmonics and an entirely new instrument called the "Harmonipede." Dell'Oro is one of the greatest single acts in the variety world.

Burke and Harrison will entertain with bright dialogue, clever songs, well sung and classy dances. Their act is splendidly new and charmingly novel and is a welcome addition to any program.

Miss Peggy Dougherty, "The Irish Thurst," a sweet singer of songs that are dear to the heart, completes the sextette of features for the coming week. There will be the usual two souvenir matinees on Thursday and a novelty is promised for Friday night. It is called "The Flour Diving Contest."

HURTY HERE IN DECEMBER.

Will Lecture on "Relations of Health to Business."

At a meeting of the Commercial club committee on health Friday afternoon arrangements were completed for the coming of Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the state board of health, who is to lecture in the assembly room of the court house during the first week in December. His subject will be "Relations of Health to Business." The meeting will be held under the auspices of the committee and will be the first of a series of health lectures to be given here during the winter. The Commercial club committee is also arranging to assist the Fort Wayne Anti-Tuberculosis society in the sale of Christmas anti-tuberculosis stamps.

MARGARET M'CORMICK DIES.

Mother of Fort Wayne Man Passes Away in Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Margaret McCormick, mother of William McCormick, of this city, died Friday morning at the home of a daughter, Mrs. W. P. Purpell, in Buffalo, N. Y. Besides her son in this city, she is survived by the following children: John, of Syracuse; James, of Friendville, Pa.; Daniel, of New York city; Mrs. Charles Walsh and Mrs. Thomas Riley, of Middletown, Pa., and Mrs. Purpell.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at Middletown, Pa., where the family formerly resided.

Machinist and Mrs. John Shuster, the former of the Pennsylvania, have gone to Richmond, Ind., to spend Sunday with relatives.

Beauty Rivals Kiss Each Other When Judges Cannot Decide Which is Prettier.

MISS CONSTANCE CLARK, ENGLAND'S PRETTIEST GIRL, AND (AT LEFT) MLLE. SIMONE MAREIX, FRENCH BEAUTY CONTESTANT.

France and England have kissed and become real good friends again. It all happened at the international beauty pageant, held at Folkstone, England, the other day.

Miss Constance Clark was declared by the expert beauty judges to be the prettiest English girl, and Mlle. Simone Mareix, the best looking French girl—girls from other European countries took third and lower prizes.

But between the French and English girls the learned judges could not decide, so they just naturally declared it a tie and the "deadly" rivals promptly fell into each other's arms and kissingly congratulated themselves.

But there were no smacks for the judges!

And—this is important—there wasn't an American girl entered in this beauty contest.

If there had been there might have been no tie for first prize!

LISTEN, MOTHER, DO BE CAREFUL

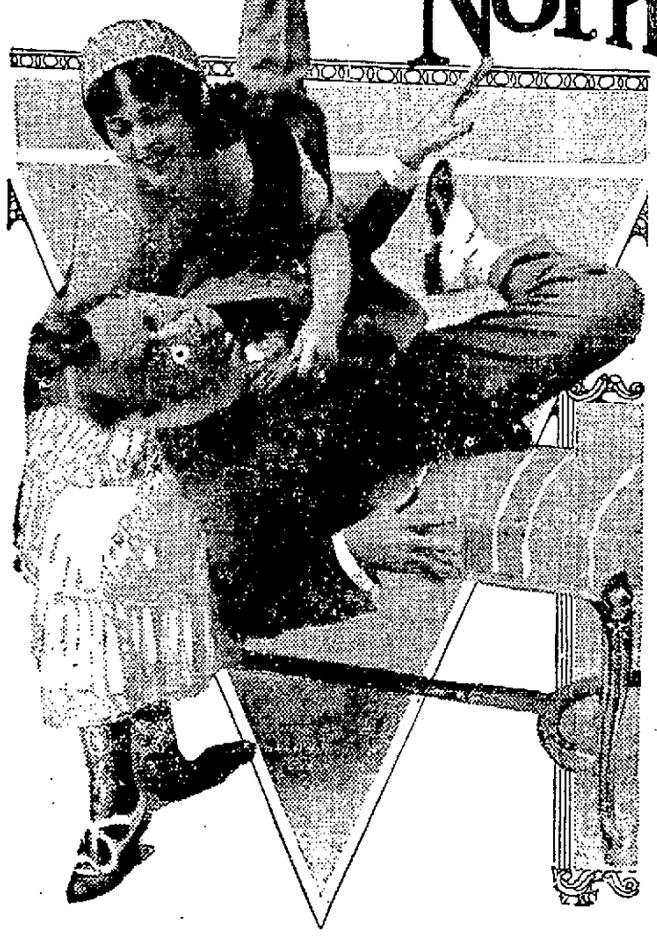
If child is cross, constipated, sick, give "California Syrup of Figs."

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomachache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow. But get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.—Adv.

Stage Letter by Norman.



HATTIE WILLIAMS AND RICHARD CARLE IN "THE DOLL GIRL."

New York, Oct. 18.—"Yes," remarked Richard Carle, to the stage manager, during one of the rehearsals of "The Doll Girl." "I like my part (puff, puff) very much—very much (ouch!) indeed. But I do just a little bit (ooh!) wish we were doing it for (pardon me till I get my breath) the moving pictures, don't you know!"

"And why for the moving pictures?" queried the s. m.

"Because," replied Mr. Carle, "when murder is to be committed for the films they substitute a dummy for the person who plays the part."

The bit of "business" to which Mr. Carle so plaintively referred is a leading feature of the musical comedy in which Carle and Hattie Williams are featured. Miss Williams, a strong and athletic young woman, seizes the attenuated Carle and throws him around the stage for some five uproarious minutes. She slams him, and bangs him, and thumps him, and mauls him. Outside of vaudeville acrobatics, nothing quite like it is to be seen.

The audience enjoys it immensely. So does Miss Williams, to all appearances. As for Carle—you see him with his eye glasses on, in the picture, which was taken during a rehearsal. In the regular show he takes off his glasses, puts them in a sheet iron case and puts the case in his pocket when it is time for the man-handling to begin. His air seems one of resignation, rather than of joy.

One of the most beautiful performances ever seen on any stage is Arthur Hopkins' production of Longfellow's "Evangeline," at the Park theater.

As Thomas W. Broadhurst has shaped the famous poem, for stage representation it takes the form of a series of pictures portraying the vicissitudes of the Arcadian lovers, with the Longfellow text followed as closely as possible. Many thousand dollars must have been spent on the scenery and stage effects, which are truly marvelous. Edna Goodrich has the title role.

Local critics commented caustically on the fact that Hopkins presents "Evangeline" as a poetic spectacle rather than a drama. Hopkins has issued a reply, in which he alleges that the piece conforms to the new standards of drama in Europe, and that it is the ignorance and provincialism of the critics, rather than the form of his offering, which is to be lamented.

* * *

The newest odoriferous play is "Today," originally presented in Yiddish on the Lower East Side, as "Style." George Broadhurst put it into English.

It is the story of a bankrupt husband, a finery-loving wife and an apartment on Riverside drive, where ladies desirous of picking up a little pin money are summoned by telephone when their presence is desired.

The husband, after losing his wealth, becomes agent for the building in which this apartment is located. He finds his wife's photograph on a table, suspects the horrible truth, gets the mistress of the apartment to send for the guilty woman, and strangles her nearly to death when she answers the summons.

In the original Yiddish he strangled her entirely to death, which really would be more satisfactory, and would add only a trifle to the play's general unpleasantness.

George Scarborough, ex-secret service man and author of "The Lure," wrote "At Bay," a melodrama which is to be seen at the Thirty-ninth Street theater, and which promises to be a success. It is commonly reported that Augustus Thomas "put it in shape," although his name does not appear on the program. The acting of Guy Standing, Crystal Herne and the entire cast does a lot for the play.

Weakness, Lost Vitality.

My combined treatment for these troubles, so common among those who have become weak and worn out is remarkably good. No one believes how quickly it benefits until they have taken it. It overcomes weakness, nervousness, pain in back, lack of energy, ambition and strength—it's just the treatment I have found so effective in treating such cases. BE A MAN ONCE MORE.

Blood Poison, Old Sores, Lupus, Epithelial Growths

And all Skin diseases are permanently and forever cured by Dr. Moreland's Pacific Blood-Cell Remedies. They act directly on the Blood Cells, eliminate the poison and restore the internal organs to their normal conditions. I am particularly anxious to hear from men who have been treated by other physicians without receiving any beneficial results or a permanent cure.

Varicose Veins Cured

I cure this affliction without pain or detention from business. Soreness, swelling and congestion of the dilated veins vanish quickly. Losses are checked. A healthy circulation of blood is re-established, the atrophied parts are developed and the old-time feeling of warmth, vigor and vitality speedily returns. Avoid dangerous operations. I can give you the quickest, safest and surest cure known to medical science.

Contracted Diseases

IN CONTRACTED DISEASES my patients are thoroughly cured in less time than any other less thorough forms of treatment require in producing doubtful results. I don't use strong, painful, injurious injections that do great harm. My method cures without pain; gives immediate benefits and a lasting cure.

Kidney and Bladder Diseases Quickly Cured.

They are often caused by early excesses, alcoholic liquors and severe sickness, the usual symptoms being chilly and feverish spells, worn out feeling, puffiness under the eyes, drains, smarting, burning and swelling. My long study and extensive practice in treating Kidney diseases insures success in all cases not past the curative stage. I determine the condition by analysis of urine, and the many severe kidney troubles I have cured, after they had been given up by other doctors, give me great confidence in my method.

TWO OF THE PLAYERS WHO ARE CARDED TO HELP DOWN FRIARS TOMORROW.

CLARENCE BEYJARD.

MAX HART.

Huntington is counting on this pair of warriors to battle in the back field against the Fort Wayne Friars at League park tomorrow afternoon and to do some effective work as word from there indicates that the combined football strength of the city has been shunted into one organization which will tackle Coach Ward's hopes here.

Mr. Ward knows the comparative strength of the two clubs as he has coached both of them and he has been sending his squad through stiff scrimmages all week to prepare it for the battle realizing that his men will go against some tough opposition.

There is one element that will enter into the play of both teams. Ward's old pupils would like nothing better than to come over from Huntington and lambast his new club and the Friar eleven will go out to defend the good name of their director and this will inject a line of rivalry that will help the game.

Manager Carl Suedhof has made an investigation and is pretty sure that in presenting the Huntington team he need not fear a repetition of his experience with Alexandria, and he and the entire membership of the club feel that the battle will be worth while.

The kick-off will be at 2:30 o'clock, and the Friars will put out the strongest line-up it has been able to present this year, as a number of the old players have been training hard and are in shape to take their old positions.

The regular line-up of the Friars' football team follows:

Coach Ward says:

"It is the intention to use in the second half of all games Strieder at right half and Baird at left half or full. Bryan will work as utility man either in the line or the back field as necessity may require. Fox will work as substitute end.

"The open game puts a premium on speed. The men above have been chosen because they combine speed with weight and experience. It is hoped that the best possible line-up has been chosen from the candidates offered. Any of the men whom we are compelled to drop will be welcomed at practice and will be given abundant opportunity to work out."

EVERYTHING BUT PUNCH.

Packey McFarland Scores Same Kind of Victory Record Is Full Of.

New York, Oct. 18.—If Packey McFarland had tried to put all his strength in his punches he possibly might have put "Harlem Tommy" Murphy to sleep in the ten round bout in Madison Square garden last night.

McFarland, however, did not have to score a knockout to win. He outclassed Murphy by clever boxing to such an extent that the latter was a pitiful sight as he vainly tried to land his weak blows and also failed to escape Packey's steady attack.

Murphy may have landed a dozen punches in the ten rounds, but none had force enough to break a pane of glass. One short hook drew a few drops of blood from Packey's lips in the ninth round and made the Chicago wizard redouble his efforts until the bell sounded.

Big College Elevens Still in Rudimentary Stage of Development.

New York, Oct. 18.—Although football schedules are designed to give the larger elevens a stronger opponent each week as the season progresses, the bigger colleges have not yet emerged from the rudimentary stage of development and today's game in the east promise no surprises, notwithstanding that Yale and Harvard, the army and some of the other teams are crippled by injuries to many of their regular players. The bigger teams expected, however, to get today a little better test of their defensive power which in practice games with scrub elevens has shown during the past week either that the varsity elevens are underdeveloped or the scrubs unusually strong.

CLIMBED TO FAST COMPANY IN JIFFY

Harry Heilmann Passed from Lots to the Detroit Tigers,

HITTING BALL HARD

Portland, Ore., Oct. 18.—Picked up from the independent ranks in San Francisco and drafted by the Detroit American league club after one season of professional experience is the rapid rise made by Harry Heilmann, of the Portland Northwestern league club. Heilmann did not cost the Portland owner anything and was signed upon the recommendations of Jimmy Richardson, a former sporting writer.

Fielder Jones, former manager of the Chicago White Sox, recommended Heilmann to the Detroit team and the Sunday before the season opened the Northwestern league president wired secretary Frank Navin to be sure and draft Heilmann. Jones thinks that Heilmann is the most promising youngster in the Northwestern league, and one of the best natural hitters he has seen in uniform.

Heilmann was signed as an infielder and played several games with the Portland Pacific Coast league club. He could have made good with that team but was shunted to the class B nine. He started in left field and was switched to first base when Billy Speas was sold to the Coast league team.

Heilmann hit the ball at a .313 clip and many of his hits are for extra bases. In a double-header, which closed the season in Portland, he secured five hits in nine times up, two singles, a double, a triple and a home run. He is a big, raw-boned, loose jointed fellow, and weighs close to 185 pounds.

On the closing day in Portland President Jones and Owner McCredie were discussing the merits of Heilmann. McCredie said that he did not believe that he would lose Heilmann by the drafting route, and Jones replied, "Well, I don't think you will."

Just then Harry sent the ball over the right field fence, scoring two runs.

Immediately after the game Jones rushed to the telegraph office in his automobile and wired to Detroit to be sure and draft Heilmann. Just as Jones was coming out of the telegraph office he met Judge McCredie face to face. A few remarks were passed and Jones passed on. The Portland owner spied that something was up and thought it was time that he was protecting Heilmann, so he wired to Cleveland to put a draft in for Heilmann, but the Naps came out second.

STARTED IN THE CENTRAL.

Ollie Chill will wear umpire togs in the American league next year. President Johnson, of the junior league, announced yesterday that he had signed the ex-American association arbiter to a contract. Chill will undergo a try-out today when he umpires the Sox-Giants game at Cincinnati. Chill will act with Sheridan, as Hank O'Day, who was slated for the job, is confined to his home with an attack of lumbago. Chill may travel with the Globe girdlers until O'Day is ready to resume his duties behind the mask.

GOULAIT FAILED IN BIG LEAGUES

New York Has Sold Former Springfield Man to the Memphis Team.

SHORT ON CONTROL

Springfield, O., Oct. 18.—Pitcher Theodore "Spooze" Goulait, the sensation of the Central league in 1912, when a member of the Reapers, and afterward a strong factor in the Indianapolis pitching squad, has been sold outright by Manager John J. McGraw, of the Giants, to the Memphis club, which is taken to mean that he has been tried and found wanting for major league society.

Goulait's drop ball baffled the players in the only twelve-club circuit two seasons ago, but his control was not of the best and the latter has kept him from shining in fast company.

So promising did he look while with the Reapers that McGraw paid the Indianapolis club $7,000 for his release. His sale was contested by the Pittsburg club, which alleged that Goulait was its property.

President Barney Dreyfuss contended that he drafted Goulait from Chillicothe and sent him to Indianapolis for more seasoning, with the privilege of recall. The national commission sustained his claim and then he turned Goulait back to Indianapolis without consideration, it is said. The Indianapolis club had been a farm for the Pirates but relations were forthwith severed.

Goulait was sent to Toronto in the international league, shortly after the Giants returned from their spring training trip in the south and he failed there. He was sent on to Wilkesbarre and was recalled at the close of the season.

Besides lacking control Goulait is under size. He may rise to the majors again but it is doubtful and the chances are that he will spend the remainder of his career on the diamond in the minors.

BALL PLAYERS ELECT.

Hold Meeting and Select Governing Bodies for the Next Year.

New York, Oct. 18—At the annual meeting of the baseball players' fraternity in this city the following officers were selected: David L. Fultz, president; Raymond W. Collins, Brooklyn Nationals, vice president; John P. Henry, Washington Americans, vice president; John B. Miller, Pittsburg Nationals, vice president; Ed M. Reulbach, Brooklyn Nationals, secretary.

The advisory board consists of Raymond W. Collins, Jacob F. Daubert, David L. Fultz, John P. Henry and John B. Miller.

The board of directors for the coming year include: W. J. Barbeau, Eros B. Barger, Fred T. Beck, William J. Bradley, Tyrus R. Cobb, John Collins, Raymond W. Collins, Samuel E. Crawford, Jacob F. NEW APPROACH TO STADIUM.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18.—A new approach to the stadium was used today for the first time by a Harvard football crowd when the Larz Anderson bridge across the Charles was opened to the public. The handsome concrete structure, with three large arches, replaces the old wooden bridge over which many thousands of football enthusiasts have passed. It is the gift of Larz Anderson, former ambassador to Japan, and a member of the Harvard class of 1888.

FEDERAL LEAGUE HAS A HANDICAP

Horace Fogel Attached to It and This is Some Burden on It.

BREAKS INTO PRINT

Philadelphia, Oct. 18.—The Federal league organizers who have been hovering around here for the last few days are very optimistic regarding the success of the expansion movement which will include three new cities in the eastern end of the circuit.

These are Philadelphia Baltimore and New York, where it is claimed grounds have been secured. Pittsburg, which city the league already occupies will form the fourth city in the east. The western circuit will have to undergo some alterations and these will be made at the league meeting next month.

In the first place the Federalists do not want to be referred to as "outlaws," said Horace S. Fogel, former president of the Phillies, and who is now interested in the local Federal league club.

Fogel is the man who is piloting Lloyd Bickert, the Federal's secretary, around among the prominent baseball men of the city, and seems to know every move which the new league is going to make in the east, and to gain headline prominence next summer. Continuing, Fogel said:

"The Federal league will issue contracts that are mutual in agreement with the players, and contracts that will stand the test of a court of law.

"Furthermore, the league will not do anything in which it is not legally right. Players under contract with the clubs of the leagues of the national agreement will not be tampered with, but no attention will be paid to the reserve clause of the big league contracts.

"If a player has actually signed a contract for next season he will not be approached, but the reserve rule will not be considered a bar to the agents of the Federal league, if they wish to sign any particular players."

These features appeal very strongly to the officers of the Players' Protective association who, it is understood, are encouraging the Federalists in every way possible.

STEWARTT GIRL IS TO WED.

Accident in Which She Figured Results in Meeting Old Sweetheart.

Hazel Stewart, who narrowly escaped death in the automobile accident four weeks ago at Gerke's curve, south of the city, in which Willard Fryback and Bessie Geary were killed, is engaged to marry F. A. Raymer, of 1411 East Wayne street, according to announcement made this morning.

It is said that the accident is the direct cause of the engagement. Several years ago, when both were residents of Defiance, O., Raymer and Miss Stewart were engaged. A petty quarrel separated them and they gradually drifted apart, neither knowing the whereabouts of the other. When Raymer saw the name of Miss Stewart in an account of the accident he at once went to the hospital and there determined that Miss Stewart was his old sweetheart. After the girl left the hospital a few days ago the engagement was renewed, and now both have gone to the girl's home at Alvordton, O., where they will be married as soon as she fully recovers from her injuries.

Quick Help to Backache and Rheumatism.

The man or woman who wants quick help from backache and rheumatism, will find it in Foley Kidney Pills. Here is another typical Yost play—an end run from a fake kick formation, with a veritable cloud of interference. As play starts, the left end cuts across to join the runner for interference should he get clear. Left guard, tackle and halfbacks form interference for the runner, who gets the ball on a direct pass. This play will keep the opponents guessing, especially if the same formation is used to kick from. The quarter can change the signal after the punt formation is called for, so as to select the play most likely to succeed, after he has seen the disposition of the defense.

THE WORST PIECE OF LINCOLN HIGHWAY IN THE COUNTY

ALLEN COUNTY

To establish a highway from New York to San Francisco is the fixed purpose of the Lincoln Highway association.

Plans to bring about this undertaking in which it is proposed to spend ten millions of dollars are in embryonic stage for the reason that so many states, so many cities and so many communities, each affected by the different condition, are to be taken into consideration that it is practically impossible to promulgate a general scheme.

Speedometers show that in Allen county, for instance, the highway will cover a distance of 32.8 miles in Eel River, Lake, Washington, Wayne, Adams, Jefferson, Jackson and Monroe townships, and rough calculations develop that to build over this section a concrete road, which is the ultimate aim of the association, an expenditure of $330,000 would be entailed on the basis that the road will cost $10,000 a mile.

W. M. Griffin's Idea.

"If this undertaking is ever accomplished," said W. M. Griffin, president of the Fort Wayne Commercial club and local counselor for the highway association, "the idea must be carried to the farmer that this is not a proposition that has entirely to do with automobiles, but that the landowner is as vitally interested as anybody else.

"Automobile owners are naturally good roads enthusiasts and they recognize the value of high class highways, but the landowner gets more benefit directly and my idea of bringing about the establishment of this great road is to convince him that he has as much at stake as the man who owns the machine, or even more.

"A good road costs the taxpayer less than a bad one in maintenance, and under the present bonding system the initial cost is so distributed that it can not become a burden. One built on the lines proposed by the association becomes practically indistructible, is good at all seasons of the year and is easily paid for."

Take a Long Period.

It is not proposed to rip up the roads in Allen county over which the route has been established and put in concrete at the enormous outlay shown in the estimates.

In Jefferson township there is a stretch of gravel road that will be good for a great number of years. This is presided over by August Pepe and an inspection party that made a trip over the road Thursday agreed to a man that it is the best along the Lincoln route in Allen county.

In spite of the fact that Mr. Pepe is an enthusiastic supervisor, that he spends his time and money in maintenance, this road will eventually wear out and will have to be replaced.

If it is replaced with concrete of the type proposed under the general scheme it will last for generations and will cost little more than to rebuild it of the material now in use.

Some Bad Road.

In Jackson township there is some very bad road. It is little better than the variety used in the days when the farmer hauled his grain to mill behind a couple of yokes of oxen one day and hauled his meal and flour back next day in the same way.

The argument advanced is that if this road were constructed of concrete the initial cost would be quite a sum, but it could be easily paid under the bonding system and instead of paying the tax he is now paying the man whose property is located on this road would pay pay a little more and would have a good road.

Automobile owners have taken the initiative in this enterprise and they are not asking the propertyowner to do the work for nothing. They are willing to help and for this purpose are selling certificates of membership at $5 each and have already raised half of the $10,000,000 they propose to spend along the route in aiding those communities that show a desire for new and better roads.

Adams Might Consider It.

That portion of the highway lying in Adams township is of a character that would probably prompt proptrey towners to give the project consideration. In the spring, summer and fall the road is good, but it is built on quicksand and during the winter months great difficulty is experienced in holding it on its bed.

This condition necessitates great expenditures every year that might be avoided by putting in a good foundation and this is advanced as an argument in favor of the change.

Public roads can be built in Indiana only by petition from the interested property owners, as they have to pay the freight. Therefore, Mr. Griffin's argument that the farmer must become interested is logical, because he must take the initiative.

Following the filing of a petition a period is fixed for remonstrance and if more than half the legal voters of the township affected are against the petition, which must have fifty singers, it's taps for the road as the county commissioners can go no further.

To Interest Tree Boards.

It is vitally important that the commissioners must be interested in the scheme. While they can not order roads built without the consent of the interested landowners, they can ask supervisors to make small improvements.

In many places there are trees overgrowing the roads that hide the approaches to dangerous curves and these could be removed without a great outlay. This is only one of a number of little things that can be done to materially aid in the big undertaking, and it is probable that commissioners will try to arouse the interest necessary to accomplish these things.

James D. Butt, William C. Schwier and F. William Franke, of the Allen county board of commissioners, are interested and the placing of signs at the approach to dangerous curves and crossings, which is in progress, is one step in the direction of improvement.

Carl G. Fisher, vice president of the highway association, explained in detail during a recent speech here the things that had already been accomplished and the things that he and his associates hope to accomplish, and the trip over the route during this week was for the simple purpose of becoming acquainted with it so that intelligent answers can be given when the time arrives for giving the facts to the officers of the organization.

Will Get $11,000 From Autos.

Under the new automobile laws of the state Allen county will get about $11,000 the first of January that will come from the tax on automobiles. This will go toward road improvement in all parts of the county.

There are seventeen or eighteen hundred automobile owners in and around Fort Wayne and Mr. Griffin has started the sale of the certificates and he proposes to dispose of at least a thousand, which will give $5,000 to the improvement fund.

It is proposed to invest this money where it will do the most good. In sections where property owners want new and good roads aid will be extended if the proper spirit is shown, and little by little the road will grow and section by section of improved highway will be put in until the links are all joined and there is one great whole that the promoters hope to procure.

Have a Dedication Day.

Hallowe'en will be dedication day. In some sections of the country the event will be celebrated by building big boufires along the route and arousing the citizens generally.

Just what Allen county will do in the matter has not been decided upon, as Mr. Griffin has just received his official notice of the new movement and has not had time to map out a program.

There are plenty of enthusiasts ready to join with him, and Allen county will have some sort of a celebration of the occasion. The program will be announced as soon as it has been formulated.

It is proposed by the establishment of the highway to improve conditions along its entire length not only as they relate to abutting property, but as they affect all tributory farm land and cities.

Using the Funds.

On the question of using funds the association officers have sent out the following statement:

"It is evident to all that $10,000,000 will not completely construct a transcontinental highway. It is estimated that the cost of such a highway, including material, labor, construction of bridges, etc., would be $25,000,000. Between New York and San Francisco there already are hundreds of miles entirely suited to the needs of trans-continental tourists, but which need to be linked together in order that a continuous, connected and improved highway may result. There remains about 2,000 miles which must be permanently improved. By cooperation with the local communities through which the Lincoln highway passes, the fund of $10,000,000 now being raised, it is estimated, will be sufficient to furnish the hard surfacing material necessary to improve, permanently, these 2,000 miles.

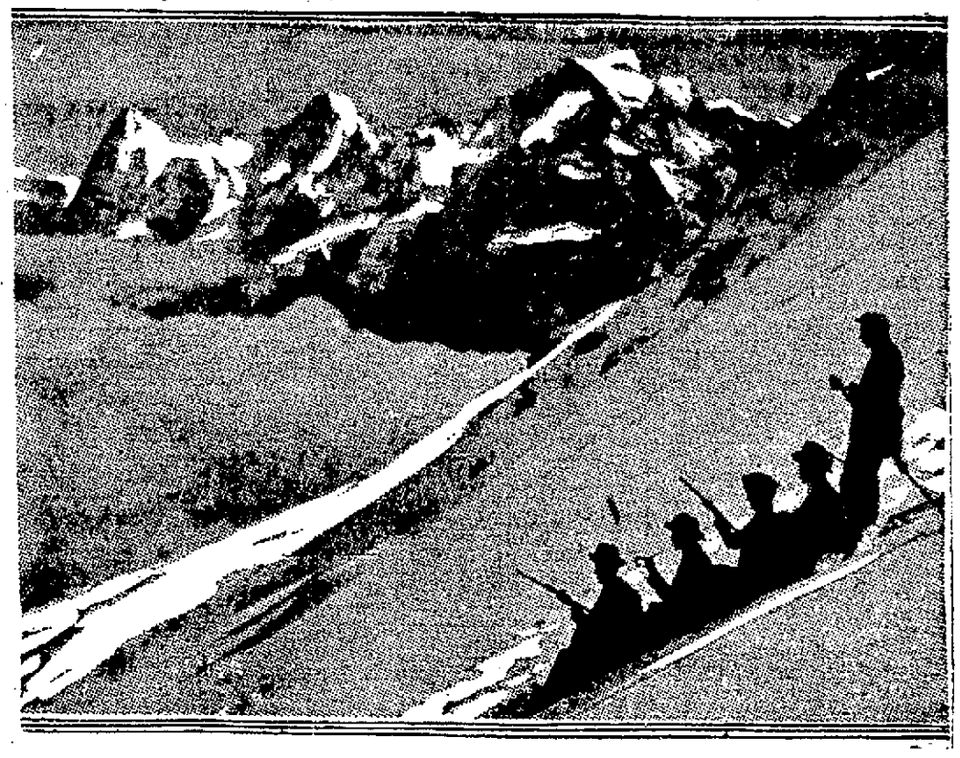
"It is proposed by the association to co-operate with these local communities to obtain the establishment of this highway, and to insure the improvement or reconstruction of existing highways which will constitute a part of the Lincoln highway. Some of the states have already taken steps looking toward the construction or improvement of the highways already announced as integral parts of the Lincoln highway which will connect the Atlantic with the Pacific.

"The route of the Lincoln highway as selected has been referred to and discussed with the governors, highway commissioners and local governing highway authorities in the various states traversed, so that there exists a united interest and close co-operation between the commonwealths and the association. This co-operation must result in the speediest possible accomplishment of our purposes.

"As a consequence of the proclamation and statements authorized by various governors, the energies of the local authorities, supplemented by that of the state authorities, will go forward in an intelligent manner with the result that communities will bend their energies to the improvement of those highways which constitute a part of and are integral with the Lincoln highway.

"Already many of the good roads organizations which have for years been directing their energies to the betterment of road conditions have expressed their determination to change the names of those local organizations in order that they may be known as divisions of the Lincoln highway. With all of these efforts intelligently directed, and all seeking to attain the same purpose, the date when the Lincoln highway will be an accomplished fact draws near."

QUAINT CUSTOMS OF THE WORLD'S QUEER PEOPLE. COURTING DEATH IS APLINE SPORT.



In Switzerland, the land of mountains, glaciers, ice and snow, courting death by tobogganing down the terribly steep sides of the Alps is counted merely a fascinating sport.

The headquarters for such "winter pastimes" is a famous place called St. Moritz. Here thousands assemble each year to climb to the tops of snow-clad peaks so that they may drop miles below over treacherously creaking snow crusts.

Generally there are four persons on each toboggan, in addition to a steersman, who stands up in the back. It is he who guides his speeding human freight to safety—or destruction.

With an "alpenstock" in his hand, as seen in the picture, he curves about rocks and crevasses that block the way.

Swiss tobogganing records claim that often a toboggan makes 900 yards in thirty seconds. The sport, although the most daring, is the most thrilling in the world.

LOAFING AROUND THE WORLD ON FUNDS FROM "CHARITY" JOB.

Dr. Fred Baker and his wife, Dr. Charlotte Baker, on board the R. P. Rithet, the wind-jammer that takes them on the first leg of their round-the-world bug collecting trip.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 18.—Dr. Fred Baker and his wife, Dr. Charlotte J. Baker, 50 and 58, respectively, are loafing around the world on wind-jammers and tramp steamers in order to collect bugs.

The first leg of their journey—from San Francisco to Honolulu—will be taken aboard the wind-jammer R. P. Rithet.

"Twenty years ago," said Mrs. Dr. Baker, "I set the broken leg of a teamster. He paid me with a lot considered worthless. We sold that lot recently, with a few added realty holdings, for $11,000. Now we are making this trip on the money.

"The trip will take two years," said the two doctors. "We will just loaf along, traveling on wind-jammers whenever we can."

Dr. Fred Baker was one of the originators of the Scripps Institute for Biographical Research, a department of the University of California, formerly the Marine Biological Association of San Diego. For three years he was president. The doctors are two of the most eminent "bugologists" in the country.

They will go far off the beaten tourist paths in South Sea islands, Philippines, Japan, China, India and South Africa, completing their journey by way of the Panama canal to San Diego.

PROMOTION MAY REACH SEVERAL

The Resignation of Toledo Freight Agent Opens Field for Advancement.

ENGINEER FRANKHART MISSING 12 DAYS

Went to Hadley to Hunt and Failed to Return—Friends Are Alarmed.

Some changes in the freight department of the Wabash which may affect several agencies will take place in November. L. N. Andrews has resigned as freight agent for the company at Toledo, effective on that date, and this is expected to result in several promotions. Mr. Andrews has been in the employ of the company thirty-three years and he resigns to take up stock-raising on a farm in Miami county, near Peru, which he owns. For a number of years Mr. Andrews was freight agent at Lafayette, going to Toledo seven years ago. The announcement of his successor will be made next week.

LONG ABSENCE CAUSES ALARM.

Engineer Frankhart Went Hunting and Failed to Return.

The mysterious and long absence of Engineer Charles W. Frankhart, of the Nickel Plate, is creating alarm among his railway friends and associates. Thursday, Oct. 9, Mr. Frankhart left in the early morning on westbound freight train 39 for Hadley, near which place he expected to spend the day hunting, as he did on several previous occasions. He has not returned and nobody can be found who saw him get off the train nor in the country near Hadley. His parents reside in Bellevue and he has a sweetheart in Miller City, Ohio, but he has not been at either city. He was expected at Miller City last Sunday and when he did not show up there then nor the days following, the young lady made inquiries concerning him of the local Nickel Plate men and they have been searching for Mr. Frankhart since. He roomed at the corner of Boone and Center streets and his clothing and other personal effects have remained there as he left them nearly two weeks ago. When he left he was dressed in a hunting suit of duck and carried no valise nor package of any kind except his gun. Engineer Frankhart is about 27 years old. He has been employed on the road eight years and was promoted to engineer about eighteen months ago. He is said to be of good habits and very attentive to his work. His absence is causing anxiety among the members of Anthony lodge No. 808, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers, in which he always took an active part and a great interest, and the members have instituted a search for him.

WERE MARRIED WEEKS AGO.

News of Wedding of Former Fort Wayne Couple Is Out.

Herman J. Schiefer, formerly purchasing agent for the Kerr Murray Manufacturing company, who went to San Francisco several months ago to take employment with the California Steam and Plumbing Supply company, and Miss Florence Schwartz were married September 29. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Catharine Schwartz, of West Butler street, and for several years was employed in the Rosenthal store. She is well known and quite popular with her friends. Mr. Schiefer is a son of the veteran tinner at the Wabash shops, Diederick Schiefer, and a brother of Oscar W. Schiefer, the secretary and treasurer of the Fort Wayne Hardware and Sporting Goods company. Soon after taking employment with the California Steam and Plumbing Supply company Mr. Schiefer was appointed manager of the concern. He and his wife will reside in San Francisco.

PROMOTING SOME FIREMEN.

Twelve New Engineers to Be Put on Nickel Plate List.

Road Foreman of Engines F. M. Baldwin, of the Nickel Plate, is preparing to give twelve firemen their final examinations for advancement. They have already passed most creditable examinations in machinery and are expected to stand high in the book of rules examinations, which are all that stands between them as firemen and full fledged engineers. There are two classes. That belonging to the Chicago division is composed of B. R. Garver, J. Hardwick, A. J. Pappert, J. F. Smith, E. H. Hunsaker and W. T. Hooper, and the class belonging to the Fort Wayne division is composed of E. S. Teagarden, H. A. Rodabeaver, H. G. Weigman, H. E. McLaughlin, J. L. Smith and J. A. Schwartz, jr. Each of these men has been employed on the Nickel Plate upwards of five years.

DECATUR SHOPS OPENED.

Over 200 Men to Move From Springfield.

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 18.—The opening today of the Wabash railroad's $2,000,000 locomotive shops here marked the transfer of the shops at Springfield to Decatur. Fully 200 employes of the Springfield shops have moved or will move to Decatur within the next few days to take positions in the new plant. More than 100 Wabash officials meet here tonight for their annual banquet.

FURLOUGHED FIREMEN RECALLED.

Increased Business on Nickel Plate Demands More Crews.

Firemen R. G. Buecher, F. J. Alberts, C. A. Prince and H. B. Friese have been recalled and placed in service on the Nickel Plate. They were out on furlough nearly all summer and now business has increased to the point where their services are needed on the road. Mr. Alberts is a ball player.

TRAINMASTERS STILL VICTORIOUS

It seems that the bowling team composed of clerks in the Pennsylvania trainmaster's office are invincible. They have played various teams composed of Pennsylvania employes and have not been defeated a single time. Last night the round house team tackled the trainmasters and went down in inglorious defeat, though they put up a good game. Three games were played and the total score was: Trainmasters, 2,330; round house clerks, 2,210. Trainmasters team—F. Kimmell, Victor Fitch, C. Haffner, G. Tholen and R. Markey. The round house team—Opatz, Burns, Likens, Schiffle, Miller, Buck and Emrick. C. Haffner, of the trainmasters, made the best score, getting an average of 177.

ONLY ONE MACHINE TO MOVE.

The largest of the steam hammers at the Wabash blacksmith shop in this city was loaded on cars this morning for shipment to Decatur to be installed in the new shops. M. R. Hardendorf, the hammersmith who had charge of this machine, has been asked to go to Decatur and operate it in the new shops. He will go there next week to look over the town and shop and may decide to remove to Decatur. Of the fifteen machines marked up for shipment to Decatur all have gone but one—the big planer operated by Machinist L. D. Miller, which will be shipped next week.

TURNED OUT ELEVEN ENGINES.

The output of heavily repaired engines from the Pennsylvania erecting shop during the week closing today was composed of the following: Nos. 7027, 7087, 7144, 7176, 7235, 7296, 7520, 7777, 9210, 9930 and 9951.

BACK AT THE THROTTLE.

Engineers C. J. Chavanne and W. Sanders, who during the dull season in freight traffic were firing on passenger engines, are again at the throttle of freight engines on the Nickel Plate. They were among those promoted last winter.

SHOP OFFICIALS BACK FROM EAST.

Master Car Builder J. A. Graham, John Klingenberger, foreman of passenger car builders; John Burlage, foreman of the tin shop, and John T. Allen, piece work clerk, of the Pennsylvania car shops, returned home this morning. They had been at Altoona, Pa., on business connected with shop work.

GONE TO LAKE FOR DAY.

Assistant Foreman Frank Opatz, of the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop, and Mrs. Opatz, went to Lake James this morning to spend Sunday. They are accompanied by some relatives from California, who have been visiting them for a week or two.

PAINT FOREMEN MEET.

The foremen of the paint department of the chief shops on the Pennsylvania Northwest system held a meeting here yesterday and discussed matters of interest to the department. Those present were Foreman George E. Graham, of Fort Wayne; Foreman G. W. Smith, of Wellsville, and Foreman J. C. Kerr, of Allegheny.

HAD HIS FOOT BRUISED.

Machinist E. Fenker, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is off duty as the result of an accident that happened to him yesterday. While he was at work a heavy iron fell on his right foot, bruising the member badly, but none of the bones were broken, fortunately.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

E. Trease, H. J. Doelling and Harry Chase, Pennsylvania shopmen, are sick and off duty.

Mrs. U. E. Trease, wife of the Pennsylvania blacksmith, has gone to Warsaw for a visit.

Blacksmith H. B. Krall, of the Pennsylvania shops, is off duty on account of the illness of his wife.

Nickel Plate Fireman S. A. Robbins has been off duty a few days on account of the illness of his wife.

Nickel Plate Switchman T. J. Murphy has been in Chicago two or three days for a little rest and recreation.

Nickel Plate Engineer A. E. Evans and Fireman George A. Schwartz have been taking a few days off duty for rest.

R. J. Fisher has returned from a week's business trip in the interest of the Bass Foundry and Machine works.

Thomas L. Comparet, bookkeper at the Bass works, has resumed work at the desk after being sick two or three days.

Yesterday G. Kantillis had the bones of his little finger on the right hand broken while at work in the Pennsylvania erecting shop.

Yard Engineer Joseph Bracht, of the Nickel Plate, has suffered an attack of rheumatism and has taken a ten days' lay-off for treatment.

Machinist A. C. Huguenard, of the Pennsylvania shops, was summoned out of the city yesterday by news of the serious illness of a relative.

William Harkenrider, foreman of laborers at the Bass machine shop, has recovered from an illness that kept him from work for several days.

Edwin Hitzemann, son of the Broadway grocer, took a position as messenger in the shipping department of the Fort Wayne Electric works.

District Manager J. L. Rodman, of Dallas, Texas, is in the city to consult the management of S. F. Bowser & Company on matters of business.

Edward F. Lidy, from the Detroit Terminal, and H. F. Scotts, from Stony Island, are new switchmen at the Nickel Plate yards. They began work this week.

E. Timmis, of the Pennsylvania boiler shop, punctured one of his feet yesterday when he stepped on a board from which a nail protruded. He is off duty as a result.

Assistant Division Engineer E. A. Beck, of the Wabash, came up from Peru this morning and spent the day at the east yards, where the company has improvements under way.

Foreman Joseph Slater, of the blacksmith department of the Bass Foundry and Machine works, will return tonight from a business trip to Indianapolis, where he went Thursday.

Engineer Joseph Harber, of the Nickel Plate, accompanied his brother to Chicago yesterday. The young man has been ailing for some time and went there to consult an eminent physician.

Harry Prillaman, who was summoned to Pittsburg a week ago by news of the serious illness of his father, returned yesterday and this morning resumed work in the Pennsylvania machine shop.

The "Tec" orchestra, of which Carl E. Boembke, of the Pennsylvania offices, is the leader, will furnish the music for an entertainment under the auspices of the Catholic church at Monroeville tomorrow evening.

Joseph Vesona, who quit a job in the Pennsylvania machine shop three years ago and went to Buffalo to work, has returned here to live. This morning he was given employment in the Pennsylvania shops.

R. A. Parnin and family have returned to their home in Cleveland. They had been visiting his mother and brother, F. P. Parnin, on Fulton street. Mr. Parnin is cashier at Cleveland of the Nickel Plate.

Fred Passino, of Chicago, a salesman for a supplies house, called at the Pennsylvania shops this morning. He was employeed in Shop Clerk J. H. Hobrock's office a year or two before going on the road for the Chicago house.

Ed J. Haushach, who assumes the foremanship of the machine shop of the Wabash at Decatur November 1, went to that city last night to look over the situation and if possible to get a house into which to move his family.

Engineer W. O. Chaney and Fireman L. M. Chaney, brothers, are off duty from the Nickel Plate on account of sickness of their wives. Mrs. W. O. Chaney is the most serious and has gone to the St. Joseph hospital for a surgical operation.

N. E. Colberg, of the Pennsylvania boiler shop, received a gash above one of his eyes yesterday when a sledge-hammer in the hands of his working comrade glanced and landed on his head. The wound is painful and will disable Mr. Colberg a few days.

Earl Z. Giblon, traveling passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, who makes occasional business trips to Fort Wayne, was married at Cincinnati Thursday to Miss Annie Williams and the bride and groom immediately left on a honeymoon trip to the Pacific coast.

Factory Supt. E. A. Barnes, of the Fort Wayne Electric works, has returned from Chicago, where he attended the convention of the American Foundrymen's association, at which he read a paper. Mrs. Barnes, who was with her husband, also returned home yesterday.

A telegram yesterday brought news of the death of his brother-in-law to Blacksmith J. McWilliams, of the Pennsylvania shops. The deceased, who resided in Lima, was the brother of Mrs. McWilliams, who, with her husband, left last night for Lima to attend the funeral.

Alexander Hilton has been promoted to passenger traffic manager of the Frisco, with headquarters in St. Louis. He is a comparatively young man, at least in point of experience in railroad work, having been engaged in it only thirteen years. He commenced as general agent at Kansas City of the Alton in 1901.

The explosion of the Zeppelin airship and its destruction, with loss of life, yesterday, was an item of news of especial interest to Stephen Schallenberger, foreman of Pennsylvania car inspectors. While visiting in Germany several weeks ago Mr. Schallenberger saw a Zeppelin passenger airship every day and was only prevented from taking a ride in it by the entreaties of his daughter, Miss Theresa, who feared an accident like the one described in The Sentinel's Associated Press cablegrams yesterday. The route of the Zeppelin passenger airship was directly over the village in which Mr. Schallenberger's sister resided and where he was stopping. He saw the machine every day he was at that place.

FRENCH NOBLEMAN FIGHTING FEAR TO ESTABLISH AN INDUSTRY.

De Boissaillant, the French nobleman, examining a spawning mushroom in the "spawning bed" in his mushroom cave. In the cask is a solution of insect exterminator.

Fruitvale, Cal., Oct. 17.—In a concrete cave covering 500 square feet, a French nobleman, known commercially as "A. Matrat, the mushroom man," is fighting universal fear, prejudice and cheap competition to establish an industry.

Cryptogamia the mushroom is cultivated most successfully under ground. It is raised with great difficulty in this country because of insect pests. That's why attempted cultivation in sheds and the open has failed. There must be 75 per cent. moisture in the air and a degree of temperature that does not vary —about 55 degrees. Only in cement built caves can this result be obtained.

The mushroom industry does not thrive because consumption increases slowly on account of fear. People are afraid of poison. Only the epicure eats mushrooms.

"The close resemblance," says Matrat, "of the edible mushroom to the non-edible, which contains muscarine and phalin, two deadly poisons, coupled with the fact that the wild mushroom frequently grows in low, swampy ground, absorbing typhoid, malaria, tuberculosis, and cholera germs, has taught the people to fear all mushrooms. It has hurt the industry.

"The sale of wild mushrooms is indiscriminate and unauthorized. People do not always realize the risk.

"The mushroom grows from spawn. It takes about two months to mature and yields three crops a year.

"My cave yields about five to six hundred pounds per crop," concluded Matrat. "But I make not much money because the wild mushrooms sell cheap—twenty-five cents a pound. Cultivated ones, seventy-five cents. But the wild mushroom weighs twice as much as the cultivated. The price fools the public."

DOCTORS COME TO AN AGREEMENT

Now Concede That the Cure of Disease is Brought About Through the Blood Stream.

Practice of Medicine Rapidly Becoming an Exact Science.

For many generations the people have been led to believe that the only good medicine would do was through an empirical standpoint or because certain remedies were given solely from the fact that some one else had been cured by them. All this is changed today. Instead of resorting to surgical operations when everything else had failed, medical science has made such wonderful progress that when a proper diagnosis is given that the cure of chronic diseases can be almost accurately foretold.

The most learned physicians of the present time now understand that these conditions are cured through the blood stream by increasing the red cells and stimulating all metabolitic processes. This does away with surgery in almost all cases although surgery at times is necessary.

Today the great patholigical institutes for original research work, the heads of the great established laboratories of this world have realized that the cure of most diseases can be accomplished without surgery and must be done through the blood stream itself. The United Specialists have kept themselves abreast of every advance in medical science and have proven to many people of Fort Wayne that many so-called surgical diseases can be cured through the scientific administration of medicine. Of course, the successful treatment of diseases must depend on a thorough understanding of any case and an absolute diagnosis of the conditions. These specialists through years of experience and their wonderful mechanical equipment can diagnose correctly nearly every doubtful and deep-seated condition. As an example of their wonderful blood cell-building methods, Mrs. Mary Ince, of Fort Wayne, writes:

Fort Wayne, Ind.,
Oct. 18, 1913.

To whom it may concern:

I began treatment with the United Specialists on Oct. 7 and they have done me more good than any other specialist I have ever seen. I have taken treatment from all the best specialists in the country without any good effect whatever. Since coming here I am proud to say I have been greatly benefited. Any one who is suffering from chronic, deep-seated disease, will not be disappointed if they will go to the United Specialists, for I am sure they will be able to do as much for them as they did for me.

S. S. METCALF,
1320 Frances St.

P. S. Some of the best Fort Wayne physicians have examined me, but one of them refused to give me treatment, saying he knew absolutely nothing about the case.

These testimonials from the public should convince the most skeptical as to the good work being done by these physicians. Mrs. Ince had only taken treatment of three weeks and cheerfully wrote this testimonial so that other people might get the benefit of their skill.

Many men who have formerly been treated for years have asked the United Specialists to refer other men to them.—Adv.

Repeats Advice To Use Mentho-Laxene Medicine, Which Anyone Can Make at Home Cheaper Than Labeled Goods—Purer and Better, Too.

People who've "barrels of money" probably won't appreciate this advice.

This is for the reader who knows the value of every five-cent piece, and usually it saves from 40 to 100 five-cent pieces for those who are informed. Buying medicine in dribs costs more than making a big supply yourself. Buying ordinary patent medicines means that you pay too much for syrups, corks, bottles, labels, cartons, etc. For instance, if you buy a 25-cent bottle of cough medicine, it contains about two ounces, four-fifths of which is syrup—and for 25 cents you can make one-half gallon of syrup.

By making Mentho-Laxene medicine at home you save lots of money on syrup, alone, and besides you know it's pure and quickly effective. Let us prove then that the best and cheapest way to overcome coughs, colds, catarrh and to prevent pneumonia, diphtheria, la grippe, is to make this fine big supply of medicine by mixing one-half pint of boiling water with a pint of granulated sugar. Then, buy the pure concentrated essence Mentho-Laxene (a 2½ oz. bottle) empty it into a pint bottle or jar and fill it up with the syrup. Directions with each bottle tells how to make and take, while the manufacturers guarantee to refund money to any dissatisfied purchaser. You run no risk and will have on hand a medicine which has never been equaled for colds, coughs, bronchitis, catarrh, hoarseness, etc. Its tonic laxative action aids the entire system to a healthy basis and fatal diseases are thus logically prevented from reaching a dangerous point.—Adv.

Indian Summer
What is it?
Weatherman Palmer of the Fort Wayne Bureau Answers the Question in a Most Interesting Manner
SMUDGE
NOTHING BUT LEAVES

Why and what is Indian summer?

There is more of tradition and less of fact about Indian summer than any other season of the year. Indian summer seems to be an accident of nature, pure and simple—and it has just the same chance of being repeated from year to year as any other accident, and no more.

It is generally assumed that if there is to be any Indian summer it should come at this season of the year, and in view of that fact, the term Indian summer has come to be of commercial value, and business houses of Fort Wayne, as in other cities, are already beginning to specialize on Indian summer merchandise.

It is safe to say that not many Fort Wayne people have ever taken the time to determine the exact origin of the term, and many will doubtless be surprised when they become acquainted with the facts regarding the Indian summer season.

Walter S. Palmer, chief of the Fort Wayne station of the government weather bureau, has compiled an interesting collection of facts and fancies regarding Indian summer, or the season known by that term in this part of the world. Indian summer in the middle western state is the most beautiful season of the entire year, and in writing of its origin Mr. Palmer treats the subject in a very entertaining style.

INDIAN SUMMER

By WALTER S. PALMER.

The somewhat mythical season of the year known as Indian summer has become so firmly grounded in the minds of the people of this country that there are very few persons of mature age who do not know of the term and its application to those delightful spells of weather which are experienced nearly every fall in this section of our country. Yet there are very few persons who would venture an explanation of the origin of the term, or could many persons describe the weather characteristics which must prevail to give typical Indian summer conditions without pausing some time to consider the matter. Then again there is a great divergence of opinions regarding the time of the year when Indian summer may be expected; while there may be a general agreement that the season may be expected in the fall, some writers have stated that it comes as early as September, while others have stated that it may occur as late as December or the first of January. The origin of the term, the characteristics of the season, its usual time of occurence, and the application of the term in history and poetry gives a subject of great breadth for consideration.

Time of Indian Summer.

As a hazy atmosphere is one of the characteristics of the season, so there seems to be a hazy indefiniteness regarding the exact time of the year when the season might be expected. Its limits are marked by no astronomical phenomena; no equinox heralds its approach nor does a solstice announce its departure. Its duration is as indefinite as its entry, as it can not be said to cover any certain number of weeks or days. It has been stated by some that the season comes in September with the first tinge of the leaves, but most persons do not look for it as early in the fall as that. To others its advent is said to be as late as December, but most of us feel that the time of Indian summer is passed long before the winter solstice appears. However, the weather which characterizes Indian summer is usually experienced in this part of the country during October or November, and it is to those two months that most of us look for the season. There is scarcely a year passes that there does not obtain at some time during the fall weeks a period of unusually pleasant and unseasonably warm weather to which the term Indian summer can be appropriately applied, sometimes lasting only a few days and again extending over a period of a few weeks. As has been stated, there is nothing definite about the season and there may be an occasional year in which there may not be a period of even a few days to which the term Indian summer can be appropriately applied. But when the season does come as is usual in this section of the country, and comes in all its characteristic splendor, there is no mistaking it, and we are led to declare that it is the most delightful season of the year. Preceded as it has been by the hot days of the real summer, and by probably a few days of unseasonably cold weather which was but a foretaste of the coming winter, we welcome the season of Indian summer, with its warm, delightful days, even though lumps of ice may be stirred into the nights. In fact, the season has become typical of the best, and the English poet, Alfred Austin, made use of the term when he paid the following tribute to the great Queen Victoria on the occasion of her birthday in 1899:

"Long may the Indian summer of your days
Yet linger in the land you love so well.
And long may we who no less love you, dwell
In the reposeful radiance of your gaze,
A golden sunset seen through autumn's silvery haze."

When Thoreau had experienced one of those clear, bright autumnal days he made the following entry in his diary:

"The air has been quite warm, dry and clear, without a cloud in the sky. This American day has been such an one as, I think, Italy never sees. Our Indian summer, I am tempted to say, is the finest season of the year."

The popular belief that Indian summer marks the close of autumn and heralds the approach of winter was recognized by Davidson when he made the following statement while writing about the climate of Illinois:

"Autumn, with slowly diminishing heat, terminates in the serene and beautiful season known as Indian summer. Its mild and uniform temperature, soft and hazy atmosphere and forests beautifully tinted with the hues of dying foliage, all conspire to render this the most pleasant part of the whole year."

Surely the Indian summer time is the season of the year when lovers are loath to return from an afternoon ramble through grove and dell, and linger along the way till the setting sun seen through the hazy atmosphere gilds the western sky and betokens the early approach of night.

Characteristics of Season.

As has been expressed in the preceding paragraphs, the season is characterized by an unusual warmth, especially during the day time, the days usually being much warmer than some which have been experienced earlier in the fall. With the warm atmosphere there must be an absence of much movement of the air so that there will be nothing to detract from the balmy and beautiful weather of the season. The sky should be cloudless, or nearly so, and no rain must occur to clear the air of the haze and smoke which are characteristic of the season. The haze and smoke, however, do not act to cast any gloom over the season, but rather add to its splendor by giving a softened tint to the rays of the sun as they pass through it to earth. Characteristic of the season, the days must be warm, but the intensity of the summer sun has been lost, and during the period of Indian summer the rays of the sun stimulate rather than enervate. The nights may be, and usually are, cool and often frosty. So in general we must characterize the Indian summer as that rather uncertain period in the fall when it is unusually warm, when the air is still and dry, and when a light hazy, smoky condition persists from day to day.

By those who have made an extinsive study of the subject, it has been found that the term originated only about at the close of the eighteenth century, but it was nearly fifty years before the term had become universal enough to have it incorporated in any of the American lexicons, Webster first recognizing the term in his 1841 edition of his dictionary. The term is of American origin, the word Indian being derived from the American Indian. It seems to have been first used in Pennsylvania during the last decade of the eighteenth century, from which state it spread gradually to New England, New York and Canada, and by the year 1830 had become so widely used as to appear in English writings. Although the term originated in America it has become so widely used wherever the English language is spoken that it is not now simply an Americanism, but has been adopted as a part of the English language in its widest sense. However, the term is more widely used over the northern and eastern portions of this country than over the southern and western states, due to the fact that weather conditions which characterize the season obtain more frequently over the former than over the latter named portions of this country.

The term, originating as it surely did over the northeastern part of the United States, has overspread much of the world and supplanted some other terms which were formerly used to signify the pleasant autumnal weather. Thus, in the time of Shakespeare, it is probable that the term, "all-hallown summer," had much if not the same significance as our Indian summer, for in the first part of Henry the Fourth, Prince Hal, in taking leave of Falstaff, says:

"Farewell, thou latter spring; farewell all-hallown summer."

And again in the first part of Henry the Sixth, Shakespeare used a still different term to express the same season when he said:

"This night the siege assuredly I'll raise:
Expect Saint Martin's summer, halcyon days,
Since I have entered into these wars."

The French had still another term, the summer of Saint Dennis, as well as the summer of Saint Martin. Other countries have used other names, as the Germans call it Altweibersommer, or the summer of Saint Gall, and the Swedes give it the name of Saint Bridget's summer, as Saint Bridget's day falls on the 8th of October.

Longfellow, in his Evangeline, uses the following when referring to what we now call Indian summer:

"Such was the advent of autumn. Then followed that beautiful season, Called by the pious Arcadian peasants the summer of all-saints."

There is at present no term so universally used for the season as the term which originated in that part of the world where the Indian summer is seen and known in its greatest splendor, for there is probably no part of the world which enjoys more beautiful Indian summers than our own country; here the term originated, and the soft rhythmic cadence of the word made for it a place in the English language which it will continue to hold.

The Origin of the Term.

While there are to be found plenty of proofs of its origin in this country, the explanations made to account for its origin are many, and there seems to be no one which can be pointed out as the correct and only true explanation; in fact, the origin of the term is as hazy as the season itself. Whether it was first used by the Indians themselves and learned from them, or whether the white man first used the term, we can not tell. There are some traditions which seem to indicate that the term was used by the Indians from whom the white man took it.

The New England Indians believed that the pleasant season of the fall of the year was due to the southwest winds which usually prevailed during that time, thus bringing the good weather from the southwest where dwelled their great god, Cautantowwits, or the southwestern god—the god who is superior to all other beings, and who sent them every blessing which they enjoyed, and to whom the souls of their fathers went after their decease. They were said to have called the season Indian summer, but the explanation does not seem satisfactory.

Anther explanation which is sometimes given of the origin of the term was derived from the supposed custom of the Indians in burning the grass and underbrush during the fall of the year and so keeping the woods and prairies clean, thus creating much smoke, which gave a hazy condition to the whole atmosphere, the hazy condition so peculiar to Indian summer. While the Indians were known to fire the grass and underbrush, the practice was carried out as much in the spring as during the fall, and we find that the hazy condition which was formerly ascribed to the burnings by the Indians still persists in our Indian summers, although the practice has long ago been abandoned.

Some one suggested that the term was derived from the fact that the Indians used the pleasant weather of the fall to hunt and the fall was their Indian summer, but those best acquainted with the characteristics of the Indian state that the hunting is done as much in other seasons as during the fall, and so there is no evidence to connect Indian summer with the hunting of the Indians.

Probably the most popular and well known view of the origin of the term comes from the Indian mythology, much of which is given in Longfellow's poem, "Hiawatha." Schoolcraft in 1839 gave the following as the Indian mythology concerning the winds:

"Mudjekewis and nine brothers conquered the Mammoth Bear, and obtained the sacred belt of wampum, the great object of previous warlike enterprises, and the great means of happiness to men. The chief honor of this achievement was awarded to Mudjekewis, the youngest of the ten, who received the government of the west winds. He is therefore called Kabeyun, the father of the winds. To his son, Wabun, he gave the east: to Shawondasee, the south; to Kabibonokka, the north.

"Shawondasee is represented as an affluent, plethoric, old man who has grown unwieldy from repletion and seldom moves. He keeps his eyes steadfastly fixed on the north. When he sighs in autumn, we have those balmy southern airs, which communicate warmth and delight over the northern hemisphere and makes the Indian summer."

Longfellow learned the same mythology of the Indians, and incorporated much of it in "Hiawatha." The passage regarding Shawondasee, written in 1855, reads as follows:

"Shawondasee, fat and lazy,
Had his dwelling far to southward,
In the drowsy, dreamy sunshine,
In the never-ending summer.
He it was who sent the wood-birds,
Sent the robin, the Opechee,
Sent the blue-bird, the Owaissa.
Sent the Shawshaw, sent the swallow,
Sent the wild goose, Wawa, northward,
Sent the melons and tobacco,
And the grapes in purple clusters.

"From his pipe the smoke ascending,
Filled the sky with haze and vapor,
Filled the air with dreamy softness,
Gave a twinkle to the waters,
Touched the rugged hills with smoothness,
Brought the tender Indian summer,
To the melancholy northland,
To the dreamy moon of snowshoes."

We may never know whether or not the term was given to us by the Indians, but having adopted the term into our every-day language, we shall always associate the season with the native Indians of North America.

In Whittier's Poems.

Our poet, Whittier, made some use of the term in his poetical writings, but took no occasion to try to explain the origin of the name. The characteristics of the season are recognized in the following quotations from one of his poems:

"Thus, while at times before our eyes,
The shadows melt and fall apart,
And, smiling through them, round us lies
The warm light of our morning skies—
The Indian summer of the heart!
In secret sympathy of mind,
In founts of feeling which retain
Their pure, fresh flow, we yet may find,
Our early dreams not wholly vain."

And again in "Mahle Martin," he recognized the balmy air of the Indian summer in the following way:

"And summer days were sad and long,
And sad the uncomplaining eves,
And sadder sunset-tinted leaves,
And Indian summer's airs of balm;
She scarcely felt the soft caress,
The beauty died of loneliness."

Commercialism of the Term.

The popularity of the season and the catchy cadence of the term has led to its commercialism, for a glance through the advertising pages of the fall papers and magazines will now reveal a bountiful supply of Indian summer coats, Indian summer suits and Indian summer apparel of all kinds advertised. The fashions could not change fast enough with the four seasons of the year and a fifth, the most beautiful of them all, the Indian summer season, has been added.

How to Make the Best Cough Remedy at Home

A Family Supply at Small Cost, and Fully Guaranteed.

Make a plain syrup by mixing one pint of granulated sugar and ½ pint of warm water and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a pint bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

The effectiveness of this simple remedy is surprising. It seems to take hold almost instantly, and will usually conquer an ordinary cough in 24 hours. It tones up the jaded appetite and is just laxative enough to be helpful in a cough, and has a pleasing taste. Also excellent for bronchial trouble, bronchial asthma, whooping cough and spasmodic croup.

This method of making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is now used in more homes than any other cough syrup. This explains why it is often imitated, though never successfully. If you try it, use only genuine Pinex, which is a most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this combination.

A guaranty of absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. Your druggist has Pinex, or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind

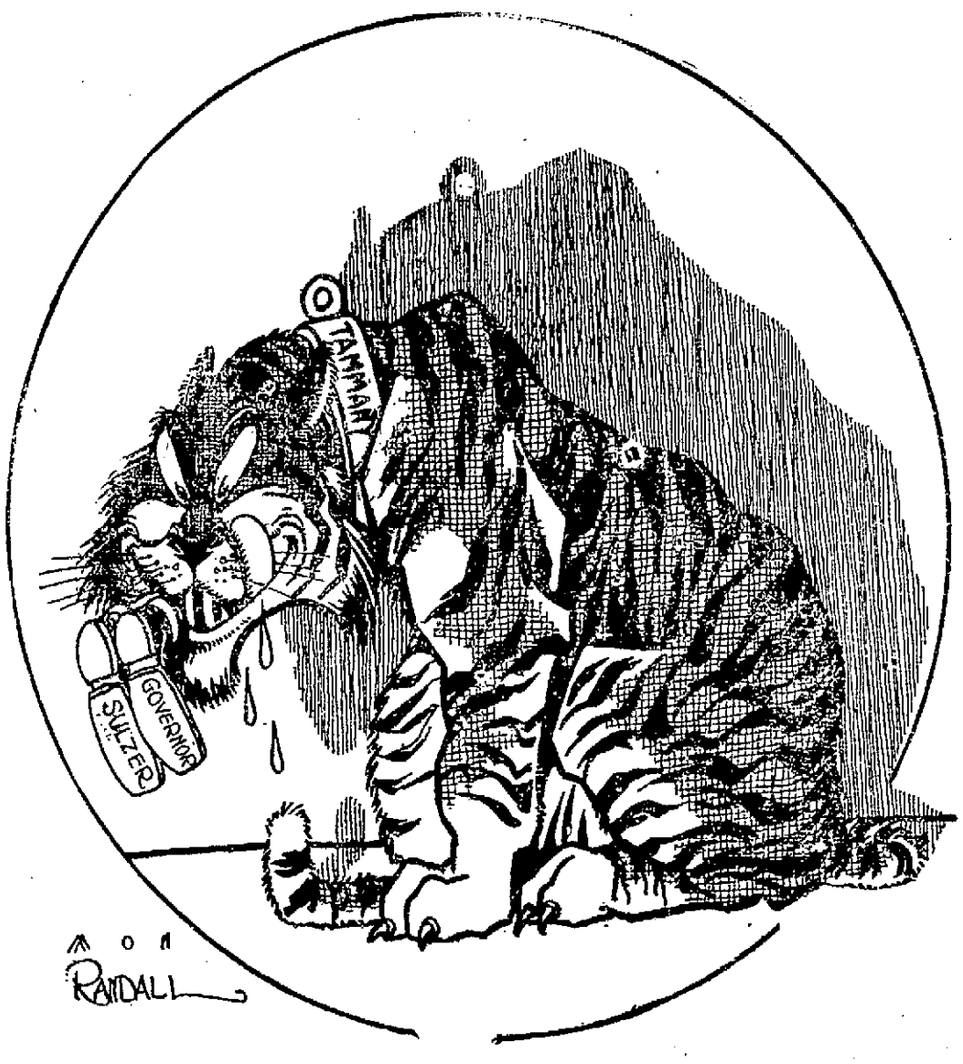
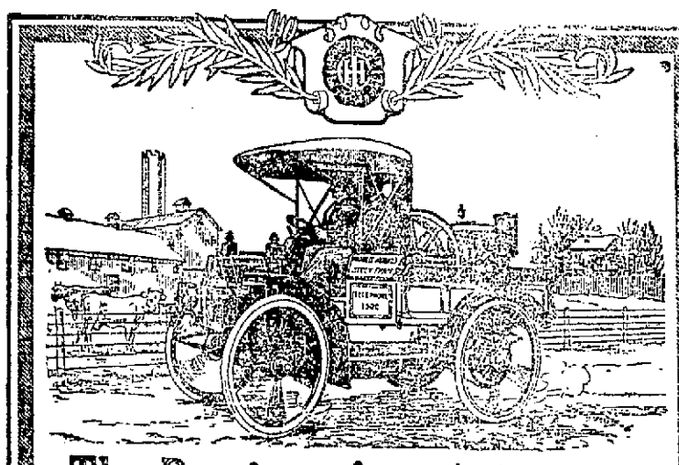
THE TIGER—"I SHOULD WORRY!"





The Passing of an Aristocrat

YOUR horses demand much, need much—and get much. For instance—costly stable, rigs, and sheds for them; harnesses, hay and oats, and its storage space; time spent each day in the year caring for them, feeding, watering, currying, harnessing; frequent blacksmith, harness, and vehicle repair bills; occasional veterinary bills; the privilege of dying unexpectedly on your hands.

All that an International Motor Truck asks for is a shed, and a small ration of gasoline and oil—that's all. And when it's not working it wants only the shed. What a comparison!

Horses today may do for a rich man—he can afford to keep them. But for the man, in any business, who is looking for most profit and most economy, the logical buy is an

International Motor Truck

For all sorts of light hauling and quick delivery, and for the many trips that must be made in every line of business, nothing can surpass the International. Costing considerably less than horse and wagon keep, it goes four times as fast and as far as the horse, saves you many hours of time, and will run twenty-four hours in a day if necessary. In reliability, and ease of management, it excels.

Solid tires eliminate common tire troubles. The wheels are high enough to give ample road clearance. The simple, sturdy motor has power to spare for any load and will take the truck everywhere a horse can go. Brakes are powerful—safe on any hill. Springs are resilient and easy. A single lever controls the car.

Little Folks' Stories — Kiddies Korner

OLD TOMMY CAN ONLY SAY "MEOW" BUT HE GETS MONEY FOR SICK SAILORS.

PUSS INTERVIEWING A NEW ACQUAINTANCE.

Our picture shows old Tommy being interviewed by a new acquaintance. Now you must know that this fine cat is very polite, although the only thing he can say is "meow."

He looks important, you think?

Well, it is no wonder. He has a perfect right to look important, we should say.

Old Tommy collects coin for the Seaman's hospital at Greenwich Pier, England.

Every one who visits the pier—and there are heaps of visitors—stops and says how-do-you-do to this kitty cat.

He has a collecting box, you see, and into this visitors are expected to drop a coin to aid the seaman's fund.

The unique plan works just splendidly. Often old Tommy has as much as $75 in the box at the end of a week.

The story is told that old Tommy belonged at one time to a very ancient mariner whose last days were spent in a wheel chair, but with very few other comforts. His daughter, wishing to help in some way to erect a seaman's hospital, where old seamen might be cared for well, thought of the plan to make pussy work for the cause.

She suggested it to some of the officers of the Seaman's Aid association. They liked the idea and told her to try the plan.

Now old Tommy is a regular institution on the Greenwich Pier!

VERY TINY, BUT VERY IMPORTANT IS THIS PRIZE-WINNING POODLE.

THE DOG WITH MANY RIBBONS.

This is J. P. M., of Albany, a prize-winning toy poodle.

The queer little fellow is all dressed up in honor of the new ribbon he has just won.

Did you ever hear of a mere dog having a swell bedroom and a fine bed in which to sleep? Well, anyway, this bow-wow has, and he feels every inch of his importance, too.

Just try to treat him like an ordinary doggie, giving no special attention to his snowy white, curly coat and his fashionable trappings—then see what he'll do.

My, but he'll wear the most disgusted, offended expression you ever saw a dog have.

J. P. M. was exhibited by Miss E. Van Rensiler, of Albany, N. Y., at the sixth annual open air dog show held at Lenox, Mass., Friday, Sept. 12.

Doesn't the little fellow look mighty happy in his gorgeously fitted up traveling bedroom?

It was taken to Lenox to the dog show when he was taken there.

Above the bed, with its soft furnishings, hang all the ribbons that this wonderful little dog has won at different shows.

Wouldn't some poor tramp dog that hasn't eaten a square meal in a week, and whose feet are all sore from runnings miles and miles over brambles and stony streets, envy this fine canine if he chanced to see him?

NOGGS IS TAUGHT MANY NEW TRICKS BY THIS 15-YEAR-OLD LEADING LADY.

MARY GLYNN AND NOGGS.

Here you see pretty Mary Glynn, who plays the part of leading lady at the Comedy theater in London.

She is 15 years old. That's pretty young to be playing the principal part in a play, isn't it?

On the stage she seems quite grown up. No one would think she ever wore her hair down her back or romped and played.

But that is where Mary tricks the public.

As a matter of fact, Lady Noggs, as she is called in the role she now plays, spends just as much time as she can playing.

Some afternoons, when she isn't studying or rehearsing, she gets a whole group of smaller children around her and then announces a game.

"We'll play hide and seek this afternoon," she says. Immediately the children get ready. Some one blinds his eyes and the fun begins. Mary is an athlete as well as an actress and she can run with the best of them. Other days, when she doesn't feel like helping the younger children make merry, she goes into the garden and teaches her pet dog new tricks.

This Irish terrier was presented to her when he was only a week old. She named him Noggs, after the title of her role in the play.

He is as clever as can be and learns very fast.

He sits up, jumps through a hoop, runs to find a ball or stick when thrown into the air and does many other cunning tricks.

Mary Glynn and little Noggs are firm friends.

NOT ABIT "A-SCARED," SAYS HAROLD, ALTHOUGH THE HORSE IS VERY, VERY TALL.

Here is the very smallest jockey in the world.

He is just "knee high to a grasshopper," but he isn't one whit afraid to sit astride the biggest horse in the stables.

Look at him holding the reins and his whip. Doesn't he look fearless?

His name, boys and girls, is Harold A. Jordan.

Mighty small to have such a long name and a middle initial, too, you may say. Yes, but then he is going to grow up pretty soon, and a big name sometimes helps to make a big man.

The tiny saddle upon which Master Harold is sitting in this picture was made specially for him. See how short the stirrups are and how small the seat is.

This little chappie says that when he grows big he is going to ride the fastest horse on the race track. And he surely looks as if he intended to do it.

How would you like to be away up on the back of that big horse, if you were just as little as Harold is?

ANTWERP NEWS.

Antwerp, O., Oct. 18.—M. P. Fields and son Franklin Leanord, were Fort Wayne visitors Friday where they were the guests of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Rumbaugh and family.

Dr. Moats and Thomas Zuber went to Fort Wayne Friday where they visited Mrs. Francis Zuber, the latter's mother, who underwent a very successful operation Thursday and is getting along very nicely at Hope hospital.

B. A. Smith, of the lumber firm of Smith & Son, was a business visitor at Fort Wayne Friday.

Mrs. Ella Curio of Fort Wayne, sister of Arch Coffiet, lately hurt in an automobile accident, visited the family here Thursday, returning home Friday. She reports the injured as on the road to recovery.

A. A. Pointer, proprietor of Antwerp's electric lighting plant, was a Fort Wayne visitor on business Friday.

By the great amount of rice left scattered around on the depot platform Thursday evening, it was evident something had happened, and on inquiry it was learned that Earl Chester and Miss Juniata Forder, both well known young people of near here, had been married. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents in Crane township, that afternoon, and that the young people had come here to take the train on their wedding journey, and their friends had caused it to "storm rice" for their benefit. It was a merry crowd and the newlyweds were made to feel just as uncomfortable as possible but were the recipients of the best wishes of all for their future happiness.

A. J. Schlib was a Toledo visitor for a few days this week attending a course of lectures.

Mrs. Homer Smith and two children of Edon, O., were visitors at this place a few days this week, called here by the serious illness of her mother, Mrs. Francis Zuber.

Mrs. G. E. Moats, who has been visiting relatives and friends at Mt. Sterling, O., is home, having been accompanied here by J. E. Gill and family who made the trip in their automobile.

J. C. Waltenburger, one of our north of the river folks, was a business caller at Fort Wayne Friday.

Mrs. Theo Harris and son, Theodore, and daughter, Dorthea, of Lima, O., are spending the week at this place, the guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Zuber.

Miss Madona Anspaugh of St. Joseph, Mich., where she is a teacher in the public schools, is the guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. John Anspaugh, at this place, having been called here by the death and burial of her cousin, Bertie, whose funeral was held Friday at 2:30 p. m. from the M. E. church.

Mrs. L. D. Keyes was the pleased hostess of two friends from her home town, Orland, Ind., a few days this week—Mrs. A. L. Stainer and Mrs. Howard Purdy. These ladies returned to their home Friday.

Misses Clara and Olive Reising have gone to Peoria, Ill., where they will be the guests of relatives for a ten days' visit.

George Reeb has purchased the Graves homestead on North Main street and will occupy the same at once. He had leased the Terwilleger property on West River street for one year, but was fortunate in disposing of the lease to other parties acceptable to the owner.

Cyrus and Lafe Thompson are home from Indianapolis where they visited their brother, William.

The Wentworth Society of Spiritualists will hold an all day meeting at the home of J. N. Hughes east of town, October 26.

Mrs. B. L. Wentworth and daughter, Mrs. Dr. E. B. Murphy, were Toledo visitors Friday where they spent the day with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Swann, northeast of town, are the happy parents of a fine baby boy, born Oct. 15.

Mrs. Coe Gordon accompanied by Miss Edith Demuth and Zelpha Gilbert, of Cecil, were Antwerp visitors a short time Friday while on their way home from Defiance where they had spent the day.

CLUB DIRECTORS TO MEET.

Special Lincoln National Highway Commission to Be Appointed.

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Fort Wayne Commercial club has been called for Monday evening by President William M. Griffin for the purpose of taking up matters relative to the Fort Wayne work to be done in the establishment of the Lincoln memorial highway. There is a great deal of preliminary work to be done in making arrangements for the construction of this coast to coast roadway and the Commercial club is taking the initiative in the matter.

Secretary Charles L. Biederwolf declares that a special committee will be appointed by the board to be known as the Lincoln highway committee, and its duties will be to take charge of all the work to be done by the club in preparing for the establishment of the road. This will be an exclusive committee, just as the finance committee takes care of the financial affairs of the club and as the assemblage committee takes charge of all arrangements for meetings in which the club is interested.

THOMAS POURS SOME HOT SHOT

Non-Partisan Gathering in Ninth Ward Biggest in the Campaign.

ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

One of the largest and most enthusiastic meetings of the present campaign was held in Bloomingdale last night when more than 200 Ninth ward voters crowded into the plant of the Ideal Auto works, corner of High and Clark streets, and from 8 until 11 o'clock listened to addresses and vigorously applauded speakers as they one by one took up in detail the issues of this campaign, giving reasons why Charles H. Buck should be elected mayor, and why the remainder of the non-partisan ticket should be supported by all fair-minded voters who are earnestly interested in the city's welfare.

Besides Mr. Buck several other candidates for various offices on the non-partisan ticket were present, and each branded as untrue a report started recently that the plan of the non-partisan movement is primarily to sell out the municipal lighting plant, waterworks and other municipal institutions.

Call it Trickery.

After having charged that this gossip is nothing more than a piece of political trickery on the part of the Hosey workers, the candidates declared that they stand firmly pledged to every plank in the non-partisan platform, and that never so long as they have any jurisdiction will Fort Wayne's municipally owned public utilities be neglected or sacrificed. Each in turn declared that the present plants will be improved if the non-partisan ticket is elected, and that they will be placed on a better operating basis than ever before. The speakers also branded as a political falsification the gossip that the corporations have anything to do with the non-partisan movement.

"The fact is, gentlemen," declared one speaker, "the Hosey people have no real political copy to use in the support of their candidate, and are forced to all sorts of wild tales in an effort to mislead the public as to the true issues of the campaign and to place William J. Hosey in office."

Those who addressed the meeting were Frank Kintz, non-partisan candidate for council from the Ninth ward; James A. Lechler, J. W. Loney, Judge J. Frank Mungovan, Charles M. Preble, William C. Geake, Charles H. Buck and Albert E. Thomas.

Thomas Puts on Steam.

Mr. Thomas in the course of his remarks declared that the solicitude of the Hosey organ for the republican nominee was inspired solely by a desire to prevent republican support for the non-partisan movement.

"In this campaign," said Mr. Thomas, "it is the non-partisan ticket against the field, and believe me, gentlemen, we have every reason for saying that we are going to leave Hosey and the rest of the field far in the rear in coming under the wire next election day."

Mr. Thomas asserted that he could furnish proof that Mr. Hosey knew to precisely what use the money he loaned that went into the segregated vice district was to be put. Regarding Mr. Hosey's management of lighting plant affairs, Mr. Thomas said:

"Hosey egotistically claims that he is the father of the municipal lighting plant. Even some of his supporters who know true conditions say he is only its step-father, but the truth is that he is not even that. He is only the midwife that officiated after the municipal lighting plant had been started. The entire route of action in building the lighting plant had been mapped out and funds provided for it when Mr. Hosey took office. He could not get away from carrying out the construction of the plant. Even then he lost the city $5,700 by not investing the lighting fund so as to bring interest. Then added to this he lost the taxpayers $5,300 by failing to appoint a sinking fund commission, made mandatory by the law for the investment of the sinking fund in city improvement bonds. Right in the start Mr. Hosey lost the city $11,000 by failing to carry out the duties of his office as mayor, and now he is asking you people to elect him again."

Other speakers defined the meaning of non-partisanism in city government, showing how it will do away with the appointment of men to positions who know nothing whatever of the work that they are supposed to do. They dwelt upon the benefits of the non-partisan plan that would come directly to the taxpayers.

A mass meeting of progress was also held Friday night at non-partisan headquarters. Dr. W. D. Calvin presided and matters of vital interest to the voters were discussed. The meeting was attended by a large crowd of men, many of whom had been classed as doubtful when the poll was taken some time ago by both the democrats and non-partisans.

Next Week's Program.

Non-partisan meetings are to be held each night and noon next week and the first night meeting will be held Monday at 1003 Harmer street. This will be a joint meeting of the voters of the First and Eighth wards and the speakers will be Charles H. Buck, Judge John H. Aiken, William C. Geake and Dr. Edward J. McOscar.

The meeting Tuesday evening will be held on Lafayette street, near the corner of Buchanan street. The speakers are Charles H. Buck, Judge Owen N. Heaton and Judge John H. Aiken.

Hosey in Tenth Ward.

William J. Hosey, democratic candidate for mayor, spoke in the Tenth ward Friday night. Addresses were also delivered by Herman J. Korte, Jacob Hartman, H. Waveland Kerr and Frank A. Emrick. At noon Friday Mr. Hosey, with Messrs. Kerr and Hartman and Herry F. Kennerk, addressed employes at the plant of the Indiana Road Machine company.

William H. LaTourette, republican candidate for mayor, addressed a small crowd in the Seventh ward Friday night and spent most of his time in discussing law enforcement.

Attorney W. Hayes Linville, of Columbia City, who has been speaking here in behalf of the socialists, closed a series of Ninth ward meetings Friday night.

Machinist H. Rohrbach, of the Pennsylvania erecting shop, is again suffering from an accident to one of his eyes which happened two or three weeks ago. He supposed the optic was well and resumed work several days ago. Yesterday the eye became worse and sight was affected to the extent that he had to quit work. He is in the hands of the company's oculist.

GIRL WONDER IS RESTORING CALIFORNIA INSANE TO SANITY.

MISS MARY M'CANN AND A FEW OF HER PUPIL PATIENTS. MISS M'CANN IS THE LAST FIGURE ON THE RIGHT IN SECOND ROW FROM TOP.

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 18.—Miss Mary McCann, 26, is reclaiming human lives from the living wreckage consigned to the Stockton insane asylum. They call her the "angel of the asylum."

Through the new system of re-education she has had such striking success in untangling crossed wires in deranged brains that other hospitals in California and other states are preparing to adopt her method.

Her record after only a few months' experimenting is seven women out of a class of thirty sent home permanently cured. Several of these cases had been pronounced hopeless.

"Practically every young person, and many of the older ones, sent to an insane asylum, excepting only the hereditary cases, can, with proper treatment, be restored within a year's time," declares Miss McCann.

"The stupidity and brutality with which demented persons have been generally treated heretofore and made hopelessly insane in the majority of cases is one of the most terrible social crimes of the century.

"Thousands of temporarily deranged men and women have been consigned to a horrid fate when with a little care and patience they might have been reclaimed."

Miss McCann has applied the kindergarten plan of education to the inmates of the hospital. Her experiments have been confined to women, but she declares they should prove equally efficacious with men.

The new system is based on the experience that broken minds can be again made normal by patiently cutting new brain channels, untangling the crossed wires.

This is done by forcing the patient's concentration upon simple games and tasks requiring close attention. Weaving baskets with bright-colored straw has proven particularly effective. Gradually the mind clears under this treatment. As interest is evinced and improvement noted, more complex tasks are substituted until finally full sanity returns.

"It requires tremendous patience," declares Miss McCann. "Often I have to show one patient many hundred times how to perform one simple act before she remembers. It is just that patience which the old system lacked in dealing with the insane.

"Kindness, patience and the proper kind of attendants will cure a big percentage of early dementia and improve even the chronic cases. Gruffness—brutality—never yet cured anything."

SPENT 22 YEARS IN ARCTIC LANDS

Missionaries Anxious to Go Back to Wild Country Immediately.

HE LIKES THE NORTH

New York, Oct. 18.—Archdeacon Lucas, who was recently ordained at Winnipeg as bishop of the Mackenzie River diocese, with headquarters at Fort Simpson, on the Great Slave river, 1,200 miles north of Edmonton, is paying his first visit to civilization since 1891, when he left Edmonton with a dog team for Fort Chippewyan. Mrs. Lucas has spent twenty years in the north. She will pass the autumn and winter in Edmonton and Winnipeg, with two of her three sons, born at Fort Chippewyan, who have just returned to Western Canada from England, where they had been attending school.

"Edmonton was a trading post with a population of a few hundred when we came through here twenty-two years ago," the missionary said. "The country, which was inhabited chiefly by buffalo, Indians and fur trappers, is equally prosperous. Everywhere we saw well kept farms, with substantial structures and cattle, that would be a credit to a much older country. The people are happy and contented and they are looking forward to even greater development in the next few years. Truly, this change is remarkable—it is something of which the people may well be proud."

Bishop Lucas will return to his diocese next winter. The population of the district is about 5,000. There are forty white men and five white women, the rest being Indians and Eskimos. The Indians are of the Slavey and Tukudah tribes, and they and the Eskimos are friends with the white people. Mrs. Lucas' nearest white woman neighbor in the north country lives in the New River settlement, 250 miles from Fort Simpson.

"The relations between the Indians and the Eskimos were not always as friendly as they are today when they get together at communion," the archdeacon said. "This would have been impossible a few years ago. The suspicion with which the Eskimos formerly regarded the red men was not without reason, as several massacres have taken place. The Eskimos compare favorably with the Indians in intelligence, and they are hardier and healthier than the average red man. I had ample opportunity to study this matter at Fort McPherson last summer, when the tribes came from the Arctic circle to pass the season at the fort.

"The work of the Anglican missions in the far north country was formerly carried on by the Church Missionary society of England, but latterly that support has been withdrawn, and the work is now under the direction of the Anglican church in Canada. There are four ordained missionaries and three laymen in the Mackenzie river district, which is thousands of miles in extent. We expect to have four additional workers next year. If we cannot get them in Canada I shall go to England for them.

"Men are difficult to obtain for the work, but it is because they do not know what they are missing. We love the north, where men and women are real. There is nothing artificial there. We are no sooner out of it than we are wanting to return. I shall go back next winter, using a dog team, and expect to visit the missions at Fort Simpson, Norman, Fort McPherson and Hay River. The church has a boarding school at the latter place, with forty Indian boys in attendance. The pupils come from a radius of 300 miles. Some of our graduates occupy positions of trust and importance with the northern trading companies and their work is highly satisfactory to their employers."

Another interesting visitor from the north country is Mr. Gerald Card, who has just resigned as Indian agent at Fort Simpson. He is succeeded by Mr. F. Harris, formerly factor of the Hudson Bay company's post at Fort Chippewyan. He made the trip of 1,200 miles on river steamers and scows, seven weeks being required for it. Mr. Card brought with him two samples of spring wheat grown at Fort Simpson. It will grade No. 1 hard. The wheat was sown last year on May 1, and was matured early in September. Oats and barley sowed on May 14 matured about the same time.

THE DISCOVERY OF A SIMPLE RECIPE HAS BROUGHT A FORTUNE

A recipe was made by a singer who had suffered for years with severe indigestion, and by the help of a celebrated French doctor, who had told him of a vegetable with marvelous digestive properties, this vegetable was used in a sauce which the singer added to his food and in the cooking. Carloads of Waw-Waw have now been sent to different parts of the world, and in every place it has had a phenomenal success. The best cooks in Europe pronounced the sauce unexcelled. It adds a zest and piquancy when used in the cooking and with soups, salads, hot and cold meats and fish which is unequalled, and at the same time one feels one can digest anything. Waw-Waw (an obsolete South American Indian word for vegetable) is a purely vegetable sauce and contains no raw spices and is guaranteed absolutely pure. Waw-Waw is unlike all other sauces and although it resembles a Worcestershire, yet the ingredients used are quite different. It costs very little to try this wonderful Waw-Waw, which is now to be found in the principal hotels, railroads and homes in America. A 25 cent bottle will convince you how much more you will enjoy your food by adding Waw-Waw and how easily you will digest your food.

HALF OF FISH IN KANSAS KILLED

Drought is Disastrous to Members of the Finny Tribe

REPTILES SURVIVE

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 18.—The 1912 drought killed one-half the fish in Kansas, according to an estimate made by L. L. Dyche, state game and fish warden. Warden Dyche believes that the hot weather and water shortage caused the death of one-third of the fish in Kansas streams and two-thirds of the fish in the ponds over the state. Furthermore, the warden says that it will take three years of capacity work at the state hatchery to replenish the streams and ponds with their finny inhabitants.

Hundreds of streams in Kansas this summer ceased their flow. Scores of small rivers, favorite places for bass and crappie, were only a series of green, impure puddles when the fall rains started in. Millions of fish, bass, crappie, channel catfish, bullhead cats and bluegills, turned over on their backs and gave themselves as food to starving turtles, hungry birds and animals of the woods and creek banks. Very few ponds in Kansas this summer were able to survive the 100-degree heat. The fish expired long before the water was evaporated.

The state fish and game warden has started a strenuous fall campaign to restock the streams and ponds. The fish he delivers this fall will spawn next spring. In turn, a respawning will occur the following year. With the best of luck and most favorable conditions Warden Dyche can not see how Kansas will be caught up in her fish supply before 1916.

The owners of ponds and the residents of creek bottoms, together with a few bands of sportsmen here and there, are aware of the conditions, Warden Dyche says. He has in his office at Pratt nearly 2,000 applications for fish. They come from all parts of the state. Kansans are anxious to restock their ponds and streams, protect the fish for the next three years and then make arrangements for the transfer of fish in case of another drought of the magnitude of that of 1913.

Thousands of fish in Kansas streams and ponds were saved this summer by transfer from small bodies to large bodies of water. In many streams persons took the large fish and ate them and allowed the younger to die. Many of the smaller streams emptying into the rivers will be stocked to a certain extent next spring when spawning begins and the fish swim up stream and at the mouth of creeks.

The drought killed the fish but spared the turtles, snakes and other creek inhabitants, says Warden Dyche. A turtle will wander from one pond to another for miles up and down a creek bed. Snakes survive by crawling through the damp underbrush and through mud crevices. Frogs hide themselves in the weeds and live until wet weather.

The ponds in Kansas average from one-fourth acre to three acres, says Prof. Dyche.

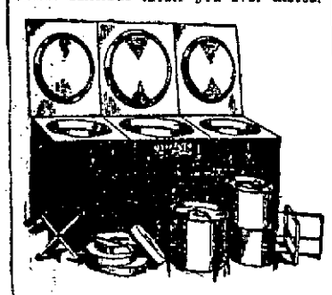
NOONDAY MEETING

Monday, Oct. 20th—Wayne Oil Tank Co. W. J. Hosey, F. Emrick and H. W. Keer.

THE IDEAL FIRELESS COOK STOVE

An automatic maid, that never gets careless, never wants a day out, never burns the food, never wants to leave—that relieves you of three-fourths of your kitchen work, saves you four-fifths of your fuel bill—and cooks the most delicious meals you ever tasted.



Roasts, Bakes, Steams, Stews, Fries, Boils.

Aluminum lined, water sealed top, perfectly insulated, beautifully finished—no other fireless cook stove like it.

Fireless cooking is the simplest of all methods of cooking. Follow your own favorite recipes—the food will be more nutritious and more delicious than you have ever before served.

HEAT INSULTATION.

Fireless cooking is made possible only by heat retention. Over a gas flame, or any other fuel, heat is produced constantly, but not retained. The fire must be kept going every minute, because the heat will be lost as rapidly as a slow fire can create it.

Only a very small part of the heat created is absorbed by the actual cooking process; all the rest is wasted fuel for which you pay.

Once cooking has been thoroughly begun, it will continue as long as the heat is retained. And the food will be cooked better than by the continuous process, which boils and steams away valuable food properties, besides cooking too rapidly.

The whole secret of heat retention is found in perfect heat insulation. A fireless cooker can lose heat in two ways: through its walls and through its top. Our WATER SEALED, heat insulated top makes it impossible for heat to escape in that direction, and our walls, being the thikest sheets of aluminium used, stop it at the sides.

Call and see it.

HOUSES AND ROOMS FOR RENT

MANY people have room they could just as well rent as to allow to remain empty. They are rooms which the family seldom or ever uses but are kept furnished at more or less expense and which produce no revenue. Why not rent them and get the money? Others have houses which sometimes remain vacant for months because they do not let it become generally known that the houses are for rent. At this season of year, when people are returning from vacations, and new people are coming to town, is an especially good time to make public the fact that these rooms or houses are for rent. How shall people be informed that these houses and rooms can be rented? It is very simple and very inexpensive. Use the classified advertising columns of The Sentinel. CALL UP 'PHONE 173.

THE MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—After a long continued decline which amounted to 11c a bushel, wheat today turned strong with shorts covering freely. The market opened ¼c to ½@⅝c higher and later made some additional gain.

The close was weak, a shade lower to a shade higher than last night.

Corn rose on account of the pit being bare of offerings. Prices started at ¾@⅞c to ⅞@1c up and scored some further advance.

The close was weak at ⅜c to ¼@⅝c net decline.

Strength developed in oats owing to the bulge by other grain.

Provisions were steadied in consequence of the rally in cereals. First sales varied from last night's level to an advance of 2½@5c.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 18.—There was a good demand for stocks at the opening today. Bear traders were desirous of evening up their committments over the week-end, and bidding from this source was mainly responsible for substantial gains among most of the leading stocks. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Amalgamated and Can rose a point each. Colorado Southern lost one.

The market closed strong. Virtually all of the leading stocks moved upwards today. The shorts were alarmed at their inability to provoke further liquidation by raiding tactics, and were forced to take to cover. Indications that the short interests had assumed unwieldly proportions during the last fortnight and that the bears had too much of a weak following caused some of the large operators to change front and work actively for a rise. Bonds were irregular.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

New York, Oct. 18.—Prime mercantile paper, 5½@6 per cent.; sterling exchange weak at 480.75@4.81 for 60 days and at 485.25 for demand; commercial bills, 480.50; bar, silver, 61½c; Mexican dollars, 47c; government bonds, steady; railroad bonds irregular.

OFFICIAL FORECASTS.

For Fort Wayne and vicinity: Fair and colder tonight with frost; Sunday fair.

For Indiana and Lower Michigan: Fair tonight and Sunday; frost tonight.

For Ohio: Fair tonight and Sunday; colder tonight; probably frost north and west portions.

SUMMARY OF WEATHER CONDITIONS

The storm which was central over Illinois yesterday morning, and which gave the rain in this section yesterday, has moved rapidly northeastward and is central over Toronto this morning. It has been followed by clearing and colder weather over the central portions of the country, but cloudy and rainy weather is general over the north Atlantic coast states and the lower lakes region. Freezing temperatures are reported this morning from Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas

In this section fair weather will prevail tonight and Sunday. It will be somewhat colder tonight, with frost.

Our Fourth Recipe

NEWVENO FLOUR

MAKES GOOD BAKING CERTAIN

From many different quarters of the globe we have gathered the recipes which we now give to the women of Fort Wayne. Here is the latest one, this time from Sweden, which we will call

STOCKHOLM BREAD

6½ cupfuls Newveno Flour.
1 cake Fleischmann yeast.
2½ cupfuls scalded milk.
½ cupful melted butter.
1 egg.
2-3 cupful sugar.
½ teaspoonful salt.
1 teaspoonful cinnamon.

Scald 1 cupful milk; when lukewarm dissolve the yeast cake in it. Beat in 1 cupful Newveno Flour and let the sponge rise till light; add the rest of the milk with 4 cupfuls flour; beat again and allow it to rise. Then add the butter, sugar, cinnamon, salt and the egg beaten into a froth. Mix and knead on a floured baking board. Cover and raise. Roll the dough into coils about an inch and a half thick and twelve inches long. Braid them, pinch the ends together and set in a greased pan to rise and bake in a moderate oven. Cool slightly and then brush with powdered sugar moistened with boiling water and slightly flavored with cinnamon.

For an assurance of perfect results with this recipe, use Newveno Flour, made in Fort Wayne for good baking.

GET YOUR FAVORITE RECIPE READY

We are going to run recipes given us by the women of Fort Wayne and will offer small but useful prizes for the best recipes. Read the offer in next Wednesday's Sentinel.

MANY ALIENS DEPORTED.

Total of 175 Excluded at Ellis Island as Undesirable.

New York, Oct. 18.—An unusual number of aliens were departed from the Ellis island immigration station today when 175 persons excluded as undesirables were placed on board ten outgoing steamships bound for Europe. Many of the cases were those of diseased persons and several were women with families of young children.

CONVICTS GUARD WARDEN WHO SUBSTITUTES "SQUARE DEAL" FOR STRAIGHT JACKET AND CLUB.

(By Jack Jungmeyer.)

Folsom State Prison, Cal., Oct. 17.—One of the strangest and grimmiest vigilante committees ever organized is that maintained by 1,100 convicts within the walls here to prevent a few of their incorrigible fellows from jeopardizing the new humanitarian administration recently inaugurated by Warden James A. Johnston.

They have everything to gain by the new system which abolished the straightjacket and other tortures, holding out no encouragement to the "stool-pigeon" whose Judas work has always been a prolific source of penitentiary hatreds and troubles.

At the hands of the striped-clad vigilantes the felon who attempted to start trouble would fare hard, they have vowed.

WARDEN JOHNSTON.

One of the 1,130 prisoners at Folsom has stepped out of the line to discuss a personal problem with Warden James A. Johnston. The warden invites these confidences which make for better discipline and regeneration. It means trust instead of suspicion; co-operation in place of trouble.

"The guy who tries to put something over on the new warden wouldn't last a minute," said one of them. "There wouldn't be anything left for the guards to do when we finished with him." He glanced at the wall where a man with a rifle on his arm paced against the skyline.

"The warden is giving us our chance—all we deserve—and we are going to give him our help in making good," said another, a little higher in the scale, between hammer blows in the quarry pit.

"A lot of the old crowd who say convicts can't be handled without the club are just waiting for something to break in here so they can say, 'I tol you so.' They are going to be disappointed."

Literally the 1,100 inmates are not organized, but there is an understanding among the majority, an unwritten law, more effective than organization.

Folsom officials declare that out of the 1,130 convicts now confined there, less than fifty are trouble-hatchers. The rest of their own initiative help preserve order. It is these fifty whom the others watch like hawks.

Shortly after Warden Johnston assumed office a serious bread riot had occurred at San Quentin, the other state penitentiary. Striped terror had stalked through the yard and guards' rifles had bellowed death. A reflex of the trouble was expected at Folsom. It had always been that way before.

Warden Johnston was warned not to allow the prisoners to congregate for an impending celebration.

"These men are not going to be robbed of their anticipated pleasure because of trouble elsewhere for which they were in no wise to blame," was his reply.

The men at Folsom heard of the decision. It made quick appeal to their sense of justice.

"He's a square guy," they said. "Nothing is to be pulled off here against the new warden." The quiet word went round. Hardened men from whom trouble was expected got swift warning. Level eye met squinting eye. The vigilantes began forming.

The man who didn't believe in violence was not to be hampered by violence.

Not a sign of trouble occurred.

The old guards, veterans from former administrations, marveled to see the new warden, a quiet, slight man in his thirties, hedged in by brawny fellows in stripes, many of them life-termers, garroters, murderers, watching the festivities in the big dining hall.

Beside the warden sat the most desperate condemned "killer" in the prison—unshackled. The two laughed and chatted together like old friends. Then they walked back to the cellhouse in the starlight, both trustful and unafraid. It was the first victory of reciprocal confidence and established a new regime at Folsom, the "hardest mill" in the United States.

OSSIAN NEWS.

Ossian, Ind., Oct. 18.—The young men's Bible class of the M. E. Sunday school, taught by E. H. Roe, entertained in a most royal manner the members of the Pleasant Word circle Thursday evening in the church basement. Covers were laid for eighty and all enjoyed a splendid chicken supper, which had been entirely arranged for by the young men. The wives and husbands of each were also invited guests. The evening was spent socially and with contests, and the orchestra furnished pleasing music.

Mrs. Louisa M. Hunter entertained at dinner Thursday Mrs. P. A. Allen, Mrs. Robert W. Stine, Mrs. David Swaim and Miss Helen Swaim, of Bluffton, Mrs. Jennie Stine, of Poneto, and Mrs. Jont Hunter, of Ossian.

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Merriman, of Montpelier, were in Ossian Thursday night to attend the supper given by the young men's Bible class and were over night guests of Mrs. Merriman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Hall.

The marriage of Orie C. Toppin, of Ossian, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Toppin, of near Trenton, to Miss Mary Robbins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. S. Robbins, of Mill Grove, took place Wednesday morning at the U. B. parsonage in Hartford City, Rev. M. F. Dawson officiating. Miss Robbins is one of the highly respected young ladies of the locality where she has always lived, and Mr. Toppin is the efficient assistant in A. S. Elzey's furniture store. The young people went at once to housekeeping in the A. S. Elzey cottage which the groom had already furnished.

Rev. and Mrs. J. Orr Powell and children returned home Thursday from a week's auto trip in the southern part of the state.

Mrs. Marcellus Alexander, Mrs. Robert Souder and daughter, Janet Craig, and Miss Pearl Alexander, all of Bluffton, were guests Thursday of Mrs. Sarah Foughty, calling on other Ossian friends. Mrs. Souder leaves for Tulsa, Okla., soon to spend the winter there with Mr. Souder, who is engaged in the oil business at that place.

Mrs. Adeline Dailey, of Villa North, is a guest this week of her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Ferguson.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church was delightfully entertained Thursday at the home of Mrs. John King. The occasion was an all-day meeting and a basket dinner. They arranged for their annual bazar, which will be held on Thanksgiving day in the church basement. Fancy work to be on sale, also dinner and supper served. Those present at Mrs. King's were: Mesdames C. F. Goshorn, Will Woodward, Fred Mills, Alex White, Felix Summers, Walter Timbrook, Lum Wilson, Wils Hoopengardner, John Dean, Robert Turner, Harry King, Arthur Roe, James Wilson, also Rev. and Mrs. F. K. Baker and Mrs. Anna Boyer.

Mrs. Lee Chalfant returned home Thursday from a visit in Garrett with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Chalfant.

R. H. McClelland, of Portland, Me., came Tuesday evening for a visit with his sister, Mrs. Ellen Gibson.

John Elzey has purchased the Harry Carpenter house and moved into it this week. Lloyd Zeller, who occupied the Carpenter house, has purchased the Ed Bowman property and now occupies it.

Mrs. J. S. Burnett entertained on Wednesday for dinner Mrs. Robert A. Green and her daughter, Mrs. Wesley Kemper and sons, Leroy and Robert, of South Milford, also Mrs. Walter Timbrook and son, William.

Mrs. Richard Sturgis went to Fort Wayne yesterday to see her grandson, who is quite ill at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley.

Alex White, Samuel Kreigh, E. H. Justus and Rev. F. K. Baker went on a fishing trip to Murray yesterday in the Baker auto.

A special program is being arranged for tomorrow evening to be given by the W. F. M. S. of the M. E. church. The offering to be taken up will be added to their Christmas offering for missionaries. The program is as follows: Music, orchestra; devotions, Mrs. Glean Weirich; duet, Nondes and Rose Culbertson; piano duet, Erma Bowman and Thelma Spencer; paper, Gaynelle Bunn; solo, Glen Hoover; "W. F. M. S. What These Letters Mean," Maude Weirich; duet, David Swaim and Miss Helen Swaim, of Bluffton; piano solo, Ruth Sparks; talk, Rev. J. Orr Powell; offering; music, orchestra.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sparks, Miss Ruth Sparks and Mrs. Alex White will motor to Fort Wayne Saturday to spend the day.

Misses Mary Wray, Lulu Prough, Marguerite Burnett and Everett Powers motored over to Tocsin Thursday evening in the Burnett auto to attend the box social.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Druley, of Fort Wayne, are spending a two weeks' vacation with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Druley.

Miss Clara Burnett, of Ossian, has been chosen teacher for the primary grade at Tocsin, which was made vacant by the resignation of Mrs. Walker, of Marion. Miss Burnett has been teaching at the Greenwood school, which will now be taught by Clarence Jackson.

A mid-year rally of the Fort Wayne district of Epworth Leagues will be held in the Ossian M. E. church on next Wednesday, October 22. An afternoon and evening session will be held with a 15-cent lunch served at 5:30. The afternoon meeting begins at 2 o'clock, the praise service being led by Mrs. A. C. Hoover, of Geneva. The address of the occasion will be made by Rev. Culshaw, editor of the "Indiana Witness," and a missionary from Darjeeling, India. Rev. Karl H. Carlson, of Fremont, Ind., will conduct a discussion on "Hhow Shall We Observe 'Win My Chum' Week?" At the night meeting beginning at 7:45 o'clock Rev. F. F. Thornburg, of Auburn, will deliver a sermon on "The Christ, the Christian and the Christless."

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

What the Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events, Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Thousands of people went to the depot last evening to meet the train which carried Allen G. Thurman, and three bands of music headed the procession to the hotel. Yesterday was Fort Wayne's biggest democratic day of the campaign. Hundreds of visitors from all parts of the country attended the meetings and the mass gathering last night to hear Thurman speak. The street parade was the largest ever held in a local political campaign and 538 old soldiers were in the line of march. Judge Thurman left this morning for Peru. He was accompanied by the Hendricks club of this city. One sad accident marred the political demonstration. A wagon load of fireworks exploded on Clinton street and Lorenze Bouse, in charge of the pyrotechnical display, was caught in the flames, suffering burns from which he died at an early hour this morning. Robert Smith was badly burned and is at the City hospital.

The high board fence about the new government building is being razed and the structure looms up in all its grandeur. The building is entirely completed and only awaits furniture.

Morgan Harrod, the well known farmer, was touched by pickpockets for $40 yesterday during the parade.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Barnett are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Beamer, of Springfield, Ill.

Rev. D. C. Woolpert this morning found a pocketbook in his yard belonging to John Krudop. It held some valuable papers, but the $200 which Mr. Krudop carried with him is missing.

Dr. C. B. Stemen and H. W. Mordhurst are at Indianapolis attending the Masonic convocation.

Sid Hubbard, the Wayne hotel barber, was another victim of the pickpockets yesterday, and was touched for $15.
